Roosevelt May Estimate U. S. New Deficit at Three Billion

Expected to Ask Total Expenditures Of 9 1-4 Billion
ADDED REVENUE

Better Business Has Reduced Relief Costs, Increased Funds

Washington—(AP)—President Roosevelt was described by usually well-informed officials today as reconciling to a $3,000,000,000 deficit in the next federal budget in spite of an announced desire to limit it to $2,000,000,000.

When the president sends his annual budget message to congress the first week in January, these sources predicted, he will ask for about $9,250,000,000 of expenditures during the year beginning July 1, 1940.

At the same time he was expected to forecast revenues during that fiscal year of about $6,300,000,000, not counting revenue from any new taxes which congress might levy.

Behind the scenes, the war has boosted some costs, particularly those for national defense, and has cut some revenues, such as customs receipts. But better business has reduced certain costs, like relief, and has improved such revenues as income and excise taxes.

Smaller Deficit
By spending less and taking in more, the deficit in the next budget may be about $800,000,000 smaller than the shortage for the current year.

The president has thrown out some pretty broad hints about his budget, which are keeping many Washington officials on pins and needles.

The army and navy feel most comfortable. They are assured of increases which will boost the national defense total from about $1,500,000,000 this year to $2,000,000,000 next year.

But public works advocates are growing under the impression that their funds "cut from $1,000,000,000 to about $500,000,000, including federal grants to states for highway-building. The budget was expected to rule out all new projects and to provide barely enough cash to continue those already begun.

Reduction in Relief
Relief is due for a slash from about $1,500,000,000 to about $1,000,000,000, many officials say. This cut is based on the belief that improving business can absorb a substantial number of the jobless.

Decreasing relief demands were hinted by WPA Commissioner F. C. Harrington yesterday when he said the agency would ask for no deficiency appropriation to operate until July 1. The WPA enrollment last week was 2,122,900, a drop of nearly 1,000,000 from December, 1938.

Better farm prices are expected to be offered as a reason for slashing agricultural benefits, particularly farm payments—a $225,000,000 item.

While budget preparations were being rushed, Senator Tydings (D-Mo.) proposed that congress put a new brake on government spending by enacting an "automatic budget balancing law" providing that no deficit could be incurred unless arrangements were made to pay it off within 15 years.

Final Arguments are Begun at Sheboygan In Young Murder Trial

Sheboygan—(AP)—The prosecution and counsel for the defense began final arguments today in the trial of Andrew Young, charged with the holdup-slaying of Olaf Jonassen at a soft drink bar here on March 19, 1937.

The case was expected to go to a circuit court jury late today.

Both the state and defense rested at the conclusion of yesterday's testimony in which relatives and friends testified Young was at home the night previous to the early morning holdup.

Young denied from the stand that he had anything to do with the case. He testified he was in Springfield constantly from Feb. 27, 1937, to March 18, 1937, and that he never saw Frank Allgood, accused accomplice, during the month of March.

Mrs. Raymond Courtney Danville, Ill., testified that Young had proposed marriage to her on the night of March 18, 1937.

'Plutocracies' Started War, Goebbels Asserts

Berlin—(AP)—Minister of Propaganda Paul Joseph Goebbels declared today world plutocracies "have risen and are trying to strike down a peaceful world."

Goebbels spoke at a Christmas celebration in the propaganda ministry for 200 children removed from the Saar war-zone and Mennel.

In the first Christmas-season utterance of any Nazi leader, the propaganda minister said the "war Christmas" found a "determined German people" fighting capitalist world leadership.

"But with us it is a people's war," he said, "...the people are defending their lives against an enemy that has always stood opposite the Germans."

HE WAS ORDERED TO SCUTTLE SHIP

Captain Wilhelm Dache, shown being escorted by United States immigration officials, said in New York that the German liner Columbus was set afire and scuttled "under orders." Presumably the directions came from Adolf Hitler. Captain Dache was one of the 579 members of the crew rescued by the U.S. Cruiser Tascaloosa.

Good Fellows Have Only One Day Left in Which to Show The True Christmas Spirit

Boy Admires Gun, but Only Asks 'Something To Eat' at Christmas

A little shaver, poorly clad, pale and thin, was admiring a group of rifles in a local store yesterday afternoon. His eye caught one in particular and he asked a man standing beside him, "Mister is that a BB gun?"

"I think so," the man said. "Does it say how much it is?" the little fellow queried.

The man looked at the price tag and conveyed the information to the boy with the remark, "I bet you'd like to have one of those."

"Would I ever!" the lad exclaimed. "Did you ask Santa Claus for one?" the man asked.

The plaintive reply was "Yes—but most of all I told him to bring us something to eat." The boy slipped into the crowd. The man went over to the Post-Crescent and became a Good Fellow.

Claim Cleveland Feeds All Needy

Cleveland—(AP)—Cleveland now is feeding all its needy, officials declared today.

"Of course there will be nothing extra for Christmas," said Sydney T. Rowley, one of the relief executives who has been trying to make ends meet to provide for 65,000 indigent persons here.

"It probably won't be the type of Christmas that everyone would like, but none will go hungry," he declared.

Cleveland's mayor and Ohio's governor said there was no need for setting up army soup kitchens. President Roosevelt yesterday told Ohio CIO Leader John Owens, the latter said that the government was prepared to send in soup kitchens if necessary.

Such a measure would be "purely for new deal political effect," Governor John W. Bricker responded.

Washington—(AP)—President Roosevelt said today that if it were shown there was starving among home-relief clients in Ohio he would send non-military camp kitchens and other aid to that state.

Bridge Behind Notre Dame Cathedral Collapses; Two Dead, Three Seriously Hurt

Paris—(AP)—Two persons were known to have been killed and at least three injured seriously today when the St. Louis bridge behind the famous Cathedral of Notre Dame collapsed after a heavy barge knocked off its central arch.

The bridge connected two islands in the Seine river, the Ile St. Louis and the Ile de la Cite.

Police said a gas main exploded after the barge struck the bridge, plunging the structure with pedestrians and vehicles into the stream.

Police estimated there were at least twenty persons on the bridge at the time of the accident. Seven were taken from the river; five were resuscitated but two were dead. The others, about thirteen, were unaccounted for.

The steel barge Tunisie, which caused the accident, was carried 500 yards downstream before her crew regained control. The captain was hurt seriously.

The bridge, which was built originally in 1627, disappeared completely into the river.

Gas pipes on either side of the river which were cut by the collapse burst into flames.

Preliminary investigation by the police was reported to have established that a barge carried by the current collided violently with the bridge's central arch and that an explosion then occurred.

Heavy forces of police and firemen were called to hold crowds back behind police lines.

The old bridge was first known as the Pont Rouge (red bridge) when originally it was built of wood and painted red. Since then it has been rebuilt three times, the most recent in 1877. The collapsed structure was of stone.

Murphy Urges LaFollettes to Be Democrats

Wants Them to Help Unify 'Liberal and Progressive Forces'

BID TO LA GUARDIA
United Front in 1940 Discussed at White House Conference

BY RUBY A. BLACK
Post-Crescent Washington Bureau
Washington—Attorney General Frank Murphy late Thursday issued a warm invitation to the LaFollette brothers to join the Democratic party and help unify "liberal and progressive forces."

"There is a lack of political utility in such states as Wisconsin and Minnesota where liberals and progressives are divided," Murphy said. "All should unite in a common cause."

After he had paid tribute to Mayor Fiorello LaGuardia of New York, and expressed regret that his ability could not be used "on a larger field," he was asked if the Democratic party would like to have LaGuardia in its fold.

"My hands are out in welcome," he replied.

This correspondent then asked if he would welcome the LaFollettes into the Democratic party.

"I would," he said emphatically. "There is no greater political stock in America than the LaFollette family," Murphy said the same thing when he spoke at the memorial service for the late Senator Robert M. LaFollette in Madison this year.

Murphy said he had not yet received any evidence from Senator Robert M. LaFollette's civil liberties investigating committee in California, because the investigation is not completed, but is keeping in close contact with the committee.

"Very interesting evidence concerning violations of civil rights is being gathered there. The department to page 2 col. 3

Appleton Is Above Average, Federal Survey Indicates

City's Business Purchasing Power, Business Rate High

Appleton is an above-average city, according to a business and economic research covering every city in the United States, larger than 2,500 population recently completed by the federal department of commerce.

The city of Appleton, according to the survey, accounts for .0383 per cent of the nation's business, with a purchasing power of only .0206 per cent of the nation's total.

The survey shows that Appleton supports 373 retail establishments, which do an annual business of $12,710,000. The yearly sales volume in the city is $503 for each resident. The figure for the entire country is $270.

Appleton's strong consumer purchasing power is indicated by figures showing that federal income tax returns were made by 72 out of every 1,000 residents, whereas the national average was 28 per 1,000.

There are 97 electric meters in the city for every 100 families, as against 67 per 100 in other cities. Twelve national magazines circulate in Appleton to the extent of 173 subscriptions per 100 families. The national average is 94.

Youthful Slayer Now Denies Girl Was With Him During Shooting

Eau Claire—(AP)—Changing his story of the circumstances surrounding the holdup-murder of Marshall J. Brenden, 39, filling station operator, Gerald O. Gaustad, 17, who pleaded guilty to a first degree murder charge in connection with the slaying, today declared he alone was involved, asserting that his former version, involving a girl, was untrue.

Gaustad, explaining a lengthy drive which preceded the actual slaying, which he asserts was accidental, said that Brenden would not agree to be reasonable.

"I tried to get him to agree not to travel at top speed, but he kept saying I couldn't get away with it even after he gave me one of the sacks of money when we first parked in the cemetery where we talked quite awhile. If he had been reasonable about promising not to tell who I was all this would not have happened."

Chief of Detectives Berger Thompson said today search for a possible accomplice would be continued despite the change in Gaustad's story.

'Letter Bombs' Harry Postmen in England

London—(AP)—Postmen handled the heavy Christmas mail today under difficulties—having to stand ready to jump back from exploding letters.

Twenty small delayed-action bombs in letters exploded last night in post offices and letter boxes in London and three provincial cities.

Seven fires and explosions started by "letter bombs" in Birmingham prompted a general police warning. The blasts were attributed to the illegal Irish Republican army, two of whose members were sentenced to death last week for a fatal bomb explosion.

Hospital Plan Being Studied At U.S. Capital

Roosevelt Says Program May Be Started in Poorer States

WOULD KEEP TITLE
U. S. Would Pay Cost of Buildings, Communities Maintain Them

Washington—(AP)—President Roosevelt said today he was considering a plan whereby the federal government would build small hospitals in states and localities too poor to provide health facilities themselves.

The chief executive, discussing his national health program at a conference, said the bills of Senator Wagner (D-N.Y.) and Senator Harrison (D-Miss.) providing for federal matching of state funds in hospital and school construction would be too costly and would discriminate against poorer states.

He added, however, that the plan he had in mind for small hospital construction was not a substitute for the Wagner measure, but a first step in the effort to improve the nation's health. He said he thought this would be a quicker way to get legislation at the coming session.

Proposed Plan
The federal government, Mr. Roosevelt explained, would pay the entire cost of the hospitals on condition that a committee of experts found the communities could maintain them both from a health and a financial standpoint.

The federal government would retain title, however.

The president said to grandiose plan of construction was contemplated that he had been informed the hospitals could be built for about $150,000 each.

A committee had told him, he said, that such buildings could be built of wood in one year which would last from 50 to 75 years if kept painted, and would have two wings, one for white and one for Negro patients, an administration center and clinic, and an operating room and laboratory.

The hospitals would have about 100 beds each.

Health Program
Mr. Roosevelt discussed the health program after he was asked about reviving the interdepartmental committee on health and welfare. He said he had requested Josephine Roche of Colorado, who had wanted to resign, to continue as chairman of this group and to work on old studies as well as the new hospital idea.

The chief trouble with the Wagner and Harrison plans, he said, was that states with the most money would be able to put up the most and thereby get more matching funds from the government, the poorer states would have to go without or obtain small amounts of money to combat a higher proportion of health problems.

The hospital plan would be based on the same general lines as public works projects, the chief executive said, with the difference being that the federal government would stand the whole cost of centers lacking adequate facilities.

As for the Harrison education bill the president said states like New York and Illinois should not have any handout from the federal government for schools, but that certain states like South Carolina and Georgia might need some aid because they lacked the money to build schools.

Dr. Gore Given 14-Year Sentence
Pleads Guilty to Murder Charge After Being Granted New Trial

Benton, Ill.—(AP)—Dr. George W. Gore, Sr., today was sentenced to serve 14 years in prison for the murder of Carl Choiser, Benton editor-attorney, when he pleaded guilty to the charge a few minutes after being granted a new trial.

Sentence was passed by Circuit Judge Blaine Hoffman of Lawrenceville who accepted the plea of guilty immediately after having ruled that Dr. Gore should have a second trial on the murder charge.

State's Attorney Rea Jones said he had made no recommendation for punishment after the new trial was granted.

Sheriff Ed Powell indicated Dr. Gore might be taken to the penitentiary tomorrow to begin serving his sentence.

The speed with which the proceedings moved stunned courtroom spectators as Dr. Gore's punishment of death in an electric chair, as decreed by a jury Nov. 16, was converted into the minimum term of imprisonment fixed by Illinois statute.

The new trial was granted after defense counsel introduced affidavits charging two jurors had said Dr. Gore should be given death punishment before they were chosen on the jury of 10 men and 2 women that returned the death sentence.

Two German Warplanes Sink British Trawler
Oslo—(AP)—The sinking of a British trawler by two German warplanes was disclosed today by the arrival of survivors today at Kopervik, Norway.

The trawler was the 204-ton River Annan, which was sunk while carrying the Danish crew of the L-214-ton freighter Bogo, which itself sank after striking a mine Dec. 19.

'Sabotage' Seen In Mystery Fire Aboard Steamship

Official of Line Thinks Labor Trouble May Have Been Cause

New York—(AP)—Officials of the Shepard Steamship company announced today that their freighter-passenger steamship Wind Rush was ablaze in the Caribbean sea in circumstances which indicated "sabotage."

Otis Shepard, vice president of the line, said the ship's master, Harris M. Jones, reported that a "mysterious" fire was raging in number 3 hold but that he had it under control and would reach Cristobal in the Canal Zone at 7 o'clock (6 p. m. C. S. T.) tonight.

Shepard said the line had been having labor trouble.

"We can't possibly imagine what would start a fire in that hold," he added. "We are suspicious that labor trouble has resulted in sabotage."

He said the hold contained a cargo of wire fencing, furniture, drugs, some cotton goods, but nothing of a combustible nature.

Firemen in Cristobal have been asked to meet the ship at its dock. The 5588-ton vessel loaded cargo at New York and Philadelphia, leaving the latter port Dec. 1 for Los Angeles and San Francisco. She carried 10 passengers and a crew of 38.

Shepard said she was 150 miles from Cristobal when the fire broke out.

Built in 1918 at Portland, Ore., the Wind Rush is registered at Portland, Maine, is 410 feet long and has a beam of 54 feet. She formerly was named the Westbrook.

Momsen Guilty in Mail Fraud Case

Judge Duffy Defers Sentence: Will Hear Motions Dec. 29

Milwaukee—(AP)—A federal court jury today found Jennings B. Momsen, 40-year-old former president of Associated Adjusters, Inc., guilty of mail fraud and one count charging conspiracy to use the mails to defraud.

Judge Ryan F. Duffy deferred sentence until after Christmas announcing he would hear after-trial motions on Dec. 29. The defendant is at liberty under $5,000 bond.

The maximum sentence possible on each mail fraud count is five years in prison, and on the conspiracy count, two years.

The jury of ten men and two women after deliberating 10 1/2 hours. It had been unable to reach a decision after deliberating 7 1/2 hours last night and resumed its consideration of the charges this morning.

Momsen was accused of obtaining $3 membership fees from 60,000 persons throughout the country on promises they would receive jobs as insurance adjusters. The government charged that only a few received jobs. The indictment included 37 counts of using the mails fraudulently, and one count of conspiracy.

Defense Counsel Charles W. Rowan asked the jury to give Momsen a "real Christmas present" by finding him innocent. Carl B. Becker, assistant United States district attorney, asked the jury to convict Momsen "as the nation's No. 1 mail fraud artist."

The Miami area does not present a very wholesome picture," Hoover declared after Attorney General Murphy said in Washington the F.B.I. chief was investigating reports concerning former associates of Al Capone.

Hoover asserted that "notorious" hoodlums were in Miami and Miami beach, and added that rackets being operated in this vicinity could not exist without corruption.

State Federation of Labor Assails U. S. Relations Board As 'an Instrument of C.I.O.'

Milwaukee—(AP)—Henry Ohl, president of the Wisconsin State Federation of Labor assailed the national labor relations board today as "an instrument of the C.I.O."

Ohl's statement was referred to the board's order that a closed shop contract between the Electric Vacuum Cleaner company of Cleveland and five A.F.L. unions be invalidated.

"No decision heretofore handed down, were it to be held legal, has been quite as destructive of peace," the statement declared. "No other decision demonstrates so clearly the charge made by the American Federation of Labor that the majority members of the national labor relations board is the instrument of the C.I.O. in its announced determination to destroy the American Federation of Labor."

The board also ordered the company to reinstate 22 employees with back pay.

The board directed that the closed shop clause be stricken from a wage-hour contract on a finding that the company aided the unions in competing against the rival C. I. O. United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers union which was trying to organize the plant. The agreement was made May 20, 1937.

The board asserted that the men ordered reinstated had been the object of discrimination, in that they were required to obtain "clearance cards" from the A. F. L. unions before obtaining re-employment after a 1937 shutdown.

The board also directed the company "to stop discouraging" membership in the C. I. O. and to invalidate its entire contract with the A. F. L. unions covering wages and hours when "a freely chosen employee organization" has been certified as bargaining agent.

The A. F. L. unions are the molders, pattern makers, metal polishers, machinists, and a federal labor union of production and maintenance employees.

Say Withdrawal Is Near Magnitude Of 'Catastrophe'

MOVE EASTWARD
Soviet Planes Drop Pamphlets on Helsinki During Storm

Helsinki—(AP)—Finnish anti-aircraft batteries today shot down one of seven Russian warplanes which dropped 20 to 30 bombs on the Helsinki area in the fourth successive day of Russian raids.

Numerous villages around Helsinki were attacked by the raiders, who ranged as far as Tammsaari, 55 miles southwest of the capital. No casualties were reported and damage apparently was not extensive.

On the land front, arctic fighters pursued retreating Russian forces in Finland's narrow corridor in the far north but held fast in the southeast.

An official announcement said the Finns had destroyed 250 tanks on all fronts since the beginning of hostilities. The Russians used 1,000 tanks on the Karelian isthmus, the announcement said.

It said the defense troops found clubs one of the best weapons against the tanks. They rushed the mechanical monsters, smashing the protruding machine-guns with heavy clubs and then tossed in hand-grenades.

Copenhagen—(AP)—Reports from Norwegian border posts today described a Russian retreat in Arctic Finland as approaching the magnitude of a "catastrophe."

Watchers on the frontiers said the main Russian Arctic force now were in the vicinity of Svalbard, a point they were reported to have passed in their southward advance of the last week before the movement reversed.

The Arctic highway, at that point swings eastward, and other reports said the main direction of the Russian retreat also was eastward, toward the Kola, Russia, instead of northward toward the Finnish port of Petsamo.

Soviet transport ships, previously stationed at Petsamo when the Arctic push began more than three weeks ago, were said now to have departed.

The weather was calm and clear but the extreme cold continued. Retreating troops observed from the frontier seemed to be trying to keep warm.

Run to Keep Warm
Motorized troops rode in lorries for a short distance, then jumped off and ran the while for warmth.

It was considered significant that no southward moving supply trucks had been observed in the last two days nor any other indication of food or munitions arriving from the north.

Inhabitants familiar with the bitter cold of this region said they believed thousands of Russians had perished.

Reports reaching here by way of Sweden said the Russians had attempted to bomb the Finnish munitions works at Tampere, north of Helsinki, yesterday. The newspaper National Tidende said three persons were killed and five wounded in two raids on the city. Other reports said two houses were set afire, five persons died and two Russian planes were shot down.

The Finnish communists did not mention Tampere and it was not learned officially whether the munitions plant was damaged.

DROP PAMPHLETS
Helsinki—(AP)—Three Soviet planes appeared during a driving snowstorm over Helsinki this afternoon and dropped large batches of pamphlets but no bombs. The pamphlets drifted seaward.

The air-raid warning was given at 1:10 p. m. (5:10 a. m. C. S. T.) and the "all clear" signal at 1:48 p. m. Snow stopped falling about this time and the planes could be seen circling for 10 minutes.

The Finns fired anti-aircraft guns and even some rifles at the planes, but they evidently were no hits.

Finnish reports from the northern front meanwhile said the Soviet air force had been active in the Lapland region yesterday, as well as in the south.

The Finns said they were continuing their advance in the Petsamo sector, where the Russians were reported in a general retreat.

Fighting continued on the Karelian isthmus, where the Finns said they were still holding their lines and Russian attacks were thrown back.

Particularly bitter fighting was reported in the icy wilds of the lake country on the eastern frontier, where the Finnish army declared it had annihilated a Russian battalion in the last two days and hinted that the war may have carried over the line onto Russian soil for the first time.

In the air, the Finns said they had shot down six Russian planes and discovered the wreckage of another shot down Dec. 19, in the vicinity of Viipuri.

They listed, however, the deaths of 30 civilians in Russian air raids of the last three days.

Red Cross Speeds Relief for Finns Following Pleas

American Representative Says 150,000 Forced To Quit Homes

Geneva—(P)—World Red Cross organizations rushed work for Finland today following urgent cables from their representative in Helsinki.

Wayne Chatfield Taylor, representative of the American Red Cross who flew to Finland, wired the Geneva office that 150,000 Finnish civilians, including women, children and aged, were forced to quit their homes "with nothing but the clothes on their backs."

He said there was a "crying need" for medical and hospital supplies and reported thousands of Finns who had been removed to villages and towns on the frigid Gulf of Bothnia lacked warm clothing.

Speed Supplies

A delegate of the International Red Cross committee is on the way to Finland by air with sample cases of medical supplies now being packed by the ton in Geneva for the Finns.

The central offices of the League of Red Cross Societies reported Swedish, Norwegian and Danish Red Cross ambulances and medical supplies already in Finland while medical supplies purchased by the United States Red Cross were on the way.

The Spanish Red Cross also contributed a large amount of medical stores.

The League of Red Cross Societies sent a complete report of Finland's needs to all Latin American Red Cross units as their request.

Both the International Red Cross committee and the League of Red Cross Societies offered medical supplies to Soviet Russia as well as Finland, but neither has received a reply from Moscow.

Woman Who Gave Her Father Poison in Pie Will Go Free

Minneapolis—(P)—The Hennepin county grand jury reported yesterday a no-bill in the case of Mary Showers, 24, held in the poison pie death of her father, William Showers, 64, year old WPA worker.

Miss Showers called police Dec. 9, asking them to locate her father, saying she had placed poison in a piece of pie sent with his lunch. Officers found him at Fort Snelling and took him to a hospital where he died Dec. 16. Police quoted Miss Showers as asserting she used the poison to "free" her mother from Showers.

County Attorney E. J. Goff said Showers has asked that his daughter be not prosecuted.

Minnesota Couple Robbed in Chicago

Chicago—(P)—Mr. and Mrs. David Hanger, of Winona, Minn., reported to police of suburban Berwyn that they were robbed of $1,000 in cash and $4,000 worth of jewelry by stop-light holdup men last night.

Mrs. Hanger had the valuables concealed in her clothing.

The couple said they had been here two weeks, seeking a tavern-restaurant business in which to invest, and were returning from a motor trip to Joliet and Peoria, Ill., when three men searched and robbed them at a traffic light in Berwyn.

Ferry Closing Date Is Latest on Record

Madison—(P)—The state highway commission today ordered the closing of the Merrimac ferry, connecting link of state Highway 113 over the Wisconsin river. The commission said the closing date this year was the latest on record. The ferry usually discontinued for the winter months during the latter part of November.

Before he could be thanked, the stranger drove away—in Lewis' car.

Liberals of Two Parties May Hold National Confab

Ikkes Says He Has Discussed Possibility With LaFollette

Washington—(P)—Secretary Ikkes said Thursday that liberals among Democrats and Republicans might call a national convention some time before the 1940 presidential campaign to organize support for whichever party named a liberal to head its ticket.

At his press conference Ikkes said that he had discussed such a possibility with Senators Norris (I-Neb.) and LaFollette (P-Wis.).

The decision to call the conference might or might not depend upon whether President Roosevelt decided to try for a third term, Ikkes said.

"If (the liberal conference) he explained, 'might be called before or after the president had announced a decision or it might be held after both parties had chosen their candidates'."

The convention, he said, would not be aimed at setting up a third political party.

Its primary purpose, he continued, would be to direct support to whichever party went to the country under a liberal banner.

In event both named "reactionary candidates," however, he said the liberals might be called upon for a "sacrifice hit."

Asked to amplify this remark, he said the liberals might decide, if they had nowhere else to turn, to launch a third party ticket, perhaps in New York state, with almost certain knowledge of defeat.

Col. Piasecki Named As Dewey Delegate

Milwaukee—(P)—State Senator Bernard Gettelman, chairman of the state Dewey for President club's campaign committee, announced today that Colonel Peter E. Piasecki, former Milwaukee postmaster, would be one of the four congressional district candidates for delegate to the national Republican convention.

Colonel Piasecki succeeds Thomas Tarnay, ineligible because of identification with the veterans administration. The other district delegate is Mrs. Blanche B. Hogue, Milwaukee.

Gettelman said he had found the Dewey candidacy enthusiastically received by small businessmen, workers, farmers and employees of the district.

Spanish Government Dominates Lottery

Madrid—(P)—The Spanish government did very well by itself today in the Spanish Christmas lottery.

Besides winning the entire second prize, the government also gets half the winnings from the first prize ticket, which was shared by a holder in Madrid.

The first prize amounted to 15,000,000 pesetas (nominally about $1,500,000) and the second prize, which the government won outright, totaled 6,000,000 pesetas (nominally about $600,000).

The Christmas lottery, a traditional event in Spain, has been resumed this year on the same basis as before the civil war.

PROMISED ARMY KITCHENS FOR RELIEF

John Owens, head of the Ohio CIO council, shown at the White House, said after a meeting with President Roosevelt that the President told him he was prepared to send army soup kitchens into the state if it becomes necessary to prevent starvation among relief clients.

Hollywood Thinking About Year's Best Motion Picture

Hollywood—(P)—With Christmas and the Rose bowl and New Year's resolutions and horse-racing matters of the moment, you'd imagine the Hollywood folks wouldn't have time to think about the year's best picture.

But they are. The academy awards dinner doesn't come off until Feb. 22, but opinion in Hollywood now is that it's all over but the formality of speeches and posing for the newsmen.

Here are the 10 pictures most likely to be considered:

"Mr. Smith Goes to Washington" (Columbia)

"Stage Coach" (Wanger)

"Dark Victory" (Warners)

"Love Affair" (R. K. O.)

"Wuthering Heights" (Goldwyn)

"Good-bye, Mr. Chips" (M. G. M.)

"Young Mr. Lincoln" (20th Century)

"Bachelor Mother" (R. K. O.)

"The Great Victor Herbert" (Paramount)

"Gone With the Wind" (Selznick)

This list, with some additions by studios, wanting recognition, or more or better recognition, will be pared down to five by the academy's nominating committee. Argentina Helping Graf Spee Crew to Find Work Ashore

Buenos Aires—(P)—Concerned over how to collect from Germany the $25,000 monthly maintenance of the Admiral Graf Spee's interned crew, Argentine officials sought today to help the seamen find employment ashore.

Officials in the ministry of interior said they hoped to complete within a week regulations under which the more than 1,000 men would be placed in "restricted zones" far from the sea.

Several Argentine residents yesterday solicited contributions for "victims of the Admiral Graf Spee shipwreck" at the gates of the cemetery where the German pocket battleship's commander, Captain Hans Langsdorff, was buried.

Langsdorff took his own life after leading his crew here following destruction of his vessel Sunday in Montevideo harbor.

WHITE HOUSE TALKS

Washington—(P)—White House and cabinet discussion of a united front for liberals in the 1940 campaign stirred Washington political circles today, but there was little favorable response among members of congress.

Most of the legislators who would comment mentioned the failure of third party and allied movements in the past.

Charges Lifting Of Embargo Hasn't Brought Benefits

Bolles Says Balk of Expenses Being Paid by The United States

Racine—(P)—Representative Bolles (R) of Janesville charged last night that the lifting of the embargo which was a part of the neutrality act has brought none of the benefits claimed by proponents.

In an address before Racine county Republicans, Bolles recalled that every member of the Wisconsin delegation in congress voted against lifting the embargo, and said: "I am certain their action will be justified. It was not a neutrality act; it was definitely in favor of one set of belligerents against another set. It purports to be a cash and carry plan when, in actuality, much of the expense is being paid for by the United States."

"When munitions are sold to belligerents, when commodities are sold to belligerents, or to neutrals, or to any nation outside of the United States, we discover that the export-import bank, the RFC, the $2,000,000,000 stabilization fund and the securities owned by the two leading belligerent nations, Great Britain and France, being held in the United States, can all be used for purchasing in this country."

"When it was stated on the floor of the house it was a 'phony' neutrality bill, it was the truth. Before we get through we will find that we neither profited by it, nor have we done anything to maintain actual neutrality."

"It has not solved our unemployment problem; it has laid off hundreds of people interested in or connected with the maritime industry. Its effects on our shipping have been disastrous and will be more so as the weeks go on."

"The balance on the side of the unemployed ledger. Outside of airplanes, there is no report of stimulation industrial activity as a consequence of the embargo being lifted."

Illness Is Fatal to Grocer at Manitowoc

Manitowoc—(P)—Leroy A. Kohl, 42, a grocer who sprinkled his advertising with humor and prospered—died yesterday after illness of several hours.

It was not uncommon for him to announce: "Peaches 60 cents a box. They aren't worth any more."

Free peanuts. Come in and eat all you want, and throw the shells on the floor."

And once, over a mound of cantaloupes, there was a sign: "Pick out the poor ones. We can always sell the good ones."

Youth Claims World Hitch-Hiking Record

New York—(P)—Robert E. Friers, 24, University of Michigan senior, who just arrived from Singapore claiming yesterday the world's hitch-hiking record—104,600 miles.

He rolled up this mileage during the last twelve years on foot and by automobile, truck, motorcycle, bicycle, horseback, burroback, wagon, dogcart, freight train, airplane, camel, rowboat, ship and various other common and uncommon carriers.

Friers' most recent "hike" took him 30,000 miles around the world. He left his home in Saginaw, Mich., early last April.

County Gets $20,874 From Pension Bureau

Miss Marie Ziegenhagen today received a check for $20,874.06 from George M. Keith, director of the state division of public assistance. The amount includes the November allotments of $13,728.88 for old age assistance, $6,195.58 for aid to dependent children and $949.80 for blind pensions.

If Santa Doesn't Come It's Possible He's in Quarantine

Barrow, Alaska—(P)—The Jolly old gent with the whiskers and the reindeer will have to use chimneys this Christmas to get past quarantine signs on Barrow homes.

Every house in this farthest North American village is quarantined for measles. All church and school programs were cancelled.

The population is more than 300, but the number of measles cases was not announced.

Note Written by Dead Man Adds to Mystery of Death

Officers Find Message in Slain Oil Field Worker's Home

Kansas City—(P)—Ruth Ramsey, strangely widowed only four months after her second marriage, real in a newspaper today portions of a deathbed note George Ramsey penned to his mother, complaining of a sordid, unhappy honeymoon with his 25-year-old bride.

Officers found the message in the Ramsey's Olney, Ill., home. They released it to newspapers but withheld it from Mrs. Ramsey. They said it apparently was written by the 27-year-old oil-field worker.

"I asked George's mother (Mrs. Samuel Hamilton of Olney) for it," Mrs. Ramsey told deputy sheriff J. A. Purdum yesterday. "She told me I wouldn't want to read it. I must I don't wonder what was in it until my dying day."

Ramsey was found dead in a suburban coal-yard here Sunday, 18 hours after he left his bride in Union Station for a week to Delhart, Texas, for a Christmas visit with relatives. Officials are proceeding on a murder theory although some have speculated he was killed by an automobile and his body dumped to delay discovery.

Gave Him Dope

In part, the note said: "To whom it may concern: 'My wife, Ruth Elizabeth Ramsey, has given me sleeping medicine, physics, dope and the like in my sleep... (officers commented this seemed impossible). 'She was too extravagant... 'She threatened me continuously with suicide... 'She attempted suicide on Sunday, Dec. 10... 'Taking care of her after she had taken the poison, I had to lose my job... (officers said this did not agree with facts). 'She continuously woke me at all hours of the night... 'We were continuously bothered with strange noises of a night... close or against the house... 'She is depending on help from outsiders here... 'Although stressing that she was not under arrest, Purdum insisted that Mrs. Ramsey remain overnight in jail for her "protection." She had returned voluntarily to answer questions. Frightened and fearing Ramsey had deserted her, she had gone to her mother's in Evansville, Ind., after he did not return from the walk on which he was killed. She said he had threatened to leave her."

To Convict Burglar

Pleasantville, N. Y.—(P)—Police Lieut. Kenneth Romaine found a half-eaten chunk of cheese—bearing distinct teeth prints—in Fred Pollex's burgled grocery store.

Police said the "prints" matched the uppers of a 19-year-old former reformatory inmate and arrested him. Romaine said the prisoner confessed entering the store and also that he had taken $800 worth of rings from another store Dec. 3.

Biography of Stalin Affirms Belief He's Ready to Unleash Drive for World Communism

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE

New York—(P)—There would appear to be a disclosure of major importance in supreme Soviet President Kalinin's current description of Josef Stalin as "a happy man who led one-sixth of the globe to socialism" and "now is ready to lead them to communism."

This statement is contained in Mr. Kalinin's biography of the Russian chief, published on the occasion of the latter's widely celebrated 60th birthday anniversary. Further interpretation of Stalin's mission in life was recorded in the Moscow press, hope to the workers of capitalist states. "It is worthy of note that this takes in a good deal more territory than is included even in the vast reaches of the Soviet union."

One approaches a solution of mysteries emerging from the red Kremlin with wariness, because frequently it is dangerous to rush to conclusions. However, part of Kalinin's assertion requires no microscope, and the whole seems to fit perfectly into the jig-saw puzzle of the present European upheaval.

Retained Same Capitalism

Mr. Kalinin presumably means that the Russian political "ism" has reached the stage in its transitional period of "socialism" when it is ready to be transformed into undiluted communism. During Stalin's 15-year regime he hasn't found it expedient to go the limit in establishing a dictatorship of the proletariat, but has retained some features of the old economic and industrial systems. It isn't easy to wipe out "capitalism" overnight.

But Kalinin's statement opens the gate to a broader field of thought. To make this clear I must repeat some facts which I have mentioned in this column recently in reporting that Moscow appeared likely to resume its original drive for a "world revolution."

When Stalin came to power in 1924 after Lenin's death, there was another active candidate for the throne—Leon Trotsky, who was a powerful figure. It then was believed that because of the disturbed condition of the world after more than four years of war it would be possible to cause a quick, general upheaval so that a globe-wide soviet regime could be established. A leading and fiery exponent of this idea was Trotsky.

The international communist organization, or comintern, failed in this scheme. Then Stalin decided the program should be held in abeyance and that Russia must come first. He wanted to consolidate the situation at home.

Big Drive Shelved

So although agents were kept in all countries to spread communism, the big drive for world revolution was shelved to await a more favorable moment. Trotsky left Russia, and after many violent ups and downs is now in Mexico.

About 1935 the astute Stalin foresaw widespread strife again boiling up in Europe. There is widespread belief that he then decided this would provide the desired opportunity for a resumption of efforts to establish a world soviet.

Many governments fear this move will grow out of the present war. The circumstances surrounding Stalin's sharp thrust westward for power has strengthened the belief that bolshevism "is on the march again."

The French official "Yellow Book," just published, records that Robert Coulondre, the last French ambassador to Berlin, told Herr Hitler that France would fight for Poland if the latter were attacked by Germany. The envoy added: "Although I think that we would be victorious, I also have the fear that at the end of a war there would be only one victor—Monsieur Trotsky."

Obvious Reference

The reference to Trotsky is obvious—Coulondre was talking about the "world revolution." A similar viewpoint was presented recently by Uj Magyarasag of Budapest, a government-subsidized paper, which said:

"It is obvious that if Germany should be defeated to such an extent as they (the allies) imagine possible, this defeated, shattered, disillusioned, war-exhausted people would not again land in the port of democracy but would swing towards lasting bolshevism. This would mean the bolshevism of all Europe."

This paper writes with the background of Bela Kun's bloody bolshevik regime of 133 days in Hungary in 1919. Then more than 1,000 people were executed.

Mussolini, among others, has been sticking to his original stand against bolshevism. Recently the Italian press, backed by public demonstrations, has conducted an anti-communist campaign. Premier Deladieri's war cabinet decreed dissolution of the big communist party in France.

Meantime the Soviet press has been appealing to the workers of many countries to smite capitalism. Only the other day a communist party organ called upon "American toilers" to defeat the "war plans" of "American imperialism."

This publication, Sputnik Agitators, asserted "The American communist party is actively preparing fulfillment of its historical task in the new international situation. It even attacked President Roosevelt, declaring that 'he is more and more siding with the incendiaries of war.'"

Blaze Put Out at Klarner Dwelling

Think Child Playing With Matches May Have Caused Fire

Black Creek—Damage, of about $50 was done by fire in the kitchen at the Harold Klarner home about 10 o'clock Thursday morning. The village fire department extinguished the blaze. Part of a wall, floor and window were damaged.

The fire was discovered by neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Kettner, who noticed smoke coming out the kitchen door. It is thought a 3-year-old son, Gerald, was playing with matches as there was a fire in a basket of clothes. An older brother in an adjoining room was unaware of the fire.

Mr. and Mrs. Klarner were not at home at the time. The child had become frightened and had hidden himself.

The tax rate for the town of Black Creek is $1.00 lower per $1,000 because of lower county taxes. The rate is $11. The amount to be collected is $18,619.54 and assessments is $1,296.342.

Miss Dorothy Ann Kluge, accompanied by two girls from Seymour, gave a talk Tuesday evening on her home economics project at Brillion, where a home economics and agricultural program was held.

She won first place on the report of her project at Seymour High school.

Little Praise, Attention Will Keep Wives Contented

BY DOROTHY DIX
A man wants to know what's the matter with wives and why so many married women are apparently sitting pretty on top of the world, with every comfort and luxury provided by a devoted husband, are peevish and fretful, disgruntled and given to lamenting their sad lots.

Well, perhaps the first reason why there are so many disillusioned wives is because such a number of them have been sold pieces of blue sky by the glib-talking youths who represented marriage to them as a perpetual petting party. They were led to believe that they were securing great lovers as life companions who could spend their time telling them how beautiful and wonderful and how different from all other women they were, breathing vows of passionate adoration into their ears.

And when they find they are united to just plain, ordinary citizens who are about as romantic as a ham sandwich, who drop all lovelornism at the altar and never mention the temperature of their affections again; who take them for granted and who hand out more knocks than bouquets, why, they just naturally feel that they have been gypped and are sore about it.

Another thing that is the matter with wives is that they have not fitted themselves for the career to which they have elected themselves. They haven't learned their trade. They don't know how to keep house, cook, market or run a budget. They are just as ignorant of how to housebreak a husband as they are of how to tame a lion. They are bungling amateurs in the most complicated of all professions. And so it is no wonder that they wear themselves out and get discouraged, nervous, cross and fretful, wrestling with a task that an expert could turn out with one hand tied behind her.

Another thing that is the matter with wives is that their husbands so seldom give them the glad hand. No other laborer on earth toils so many hours a day as does the domestic woman who does her own cooking, washing, sewing, mending and baby-tending, but her husband rarely gives her any credit for performing herculean tasks that would give him a case of nervous prostration.

On the contrary, he assumes that she leads a life of idleness and ease, and often expresses the wish that he had it soft as she does. Now it is human nature to long for appreciation, to want the stimulus of praise for work well done, as the reason many a wife slacks down in her housekeeping and sets the same sorry food on her table day after day is because she has got tired of serving over the kitchen stove preparing a scrumptious dinner for a man who will gobble it down like a pig, without even giving a grunt of satisfaction.

The reason that many wives slump and lose all the charms for which their husbands married them is because their husbands do not give them the credit they are due. They are so busy with their own little world that they treat their wives as if they were a useful household gadget. Nor can she be anything and entertaining when her wifely duties only bring forth a "umph" from the stuffed shirt behind a newspaper. And what's the use of dressing up for a man who never knows whether she has on a better dress or a steeper kimono than the one she wore out of 100 if it is only after husbands have ceased to regard their wives as Lady Loves that they give up the fight to keep themselves attractive and to make marriage something more than an endurance contest.

Finally, of course, there are many wives who are lazy and trifling and selfish, who are that way because they know that marriage is a job from which it is extremely difficult to fire a wife. They treat their husbands with an insolence with which they would not have dared treat their bosses in the days when they worked in a store or office. They do not work to earn the money they waste. They do not try to make their husbands comfortable or happy. They are grifters because their husbands cannot rid themselves of them without scandal and divorce.

Can Reopen Bid Though Hand Is Weak

BY ELY CULBERTSON

A very strange philosophy is embraced by many players. In essence, it is a form of pure defeatism, operating as follows:

When West (let us say) opens the bidding, and North and East pass, these brave souls, sitting South, heave a sigh of relief and say: "Well, partner, they can't go game with one spade. Please lead!" Of course, if this is said after scrutiny of a worthless hand, it is quite understandable, but the type of player to which I refer says it with scarcely an idea of what his own hand contains. It is enough for him that the opponents aren't "going anywhere." As for offensive action by himself, well, all he has are a few kings and queens, maybe one mealy ace. Surely he can't be expected to reopen the bidding and give the first hand a chance to bid game, can he? The fact that the opening bidder would require a super-powerhouse, opposite a passing partner, is beside the point. Once, back in 1936, South reopened the bidding on a better hand, "and do you know what happened?" West jumped to three no-trump and made it! That awful memory always will torture South's waking hours.

Of course, the South hand in the following deal was so good that it demanded some action, and South not only reached game, but, thru smart play, eked out an extra trick for a splendid match-point score:

Table with 4 columns: NORTH, WEST, EAST, SOUTH. Card counts for each position.

The bidding:
West North East South
1 spade Pass 1 no trump
Pass 2 no trump Pass 3 no trump
Pass Pass Pass
West opened the spade seven and South won with the ten. A low club was immediately led toward dummy, and West, feeling that he could always take his club king, played low. The club jack holding, declared now ran his four diamond tricks, which gave West a little discarding trouble. He let go heart and one spade. Now the heart ten was led toward the king. West, reduced to the A Q, won with the ace and returned the spade king. Declarer won, extracted West's heart queen by leading to dummy's king, and then threw West on lead with the spade. West could cash the queen and nine of spades, but then had to return a club from his king to the combined tenace in the North-South hands. The club king had been put to sleep.

Trivial Things Should Not be Placed on Child's Conscience

BY ANGELO PATRI

We cultivate a conscience in a child. When we tell him that one thing is wrong and another is right, we create a conscience. Piled up experiences strengthen that conscience and repeated actions make it a fortress that can never be taken by the forces of evil, but will stand, its flag waving, to the end.

Because we give the initial impulse to a child's conscience and so set the quality and the kind of it, we should be anxiously careful about what we create there. We must be watchful to see that we make the child afraid of things that are good to be afraid of and tolerant of those things that do not matter. This is a lifetime task, this selection and sowing of life's values, but it begins early, and if we begin wisely, the end is happier.

Nothing better has been discovered in the way of establishing a conscience of quality and power than the Ten Commandments. Nobody has yet found good reason to eliminate one of them, nor to add anything to them. I believe that they should be taught a child as soon as he begins to memorize, and that in teaching them we should emphasize their importance to his life so that he fears to break one of them.

Fear is an essential force in our lives. We ought to be afraid to lie, to cheat, to steal, to tell less than our best selves. To a child we say that breaking a commandment offends God and we hope that he fears to offend God. Older people interpret that fear, and the power of God according to their experiences, but a child, having no experience save what his teachers and parents offer within the limits of his opportunities, takes the commandments and his idea of God without question. Faith in these matters comes before reason. One does not and cannot reason about God. If he is and that's all we can make of it.

Don't put trivial things on a child's conscience. It is easy to worry the heart of some children by telling them that they are bad, and the like, because they did not obey on the minute, failed in a lesson, forgot a chore, or neglected one. Draw a line between the essentials and the near-essentials, and again between those and the nice things. Do. Then put first things first. Teach a child that it is wrong to

CASE RECORDS OF A PSYCHOLOGIST

By Dr. George W. Crane

Psychologist, Northwestern University

Do you believe that parents will love "flesh and blood" children more than adopted youngsters? And do you believe that criminality can be inherited? Be sure to read my answer to this young woman who is thinking of adopting little Bobby.

CASE P-135: Bobby, aged 2, is an attractive blue-eyed orphan. His adoptive parents, a young man and a young woman, are both college graduates. The young man has a job in a bank, and the young woman has a job in a school. They are both very kind and loving people. They have decided to adopt Bobby, and they are asking me for my opinion.

I have read your column on psychology regularly, so I know the loss of such a pet. But these pets are not of our "flesh and blood." No Magic In Flesh and Blood. Furthermore, a man's own children may desert him in a crisis, or stab him in the back, figuratively if not even literally, unless they are trained to love their father.

Many children will cheat and steal from their own aged mothers, and gamble the homes right out from under their parents. Yet they are of the same flesh and blood as their parents.

Dismiss from your minds, therefore, the false belief that virtue and honor and morality flow along inherited pathways. We are born neither angel nor devil. We are neutral at the outset, but later develop into villains or noble, unselfish men and women, depending upon our training.

The old belief that some people are "born criminals" is entirely false. If Bobby becomes a criminal after his adoption by this young couple, it will be a result of their mistakes in rearing him and not a reflection on his natural parents.

Face the Facts
An adopted child will love his foster parents and care for them devotedly if he has been properly trained. And they will soon be so fond of him that they forget he is adopted.

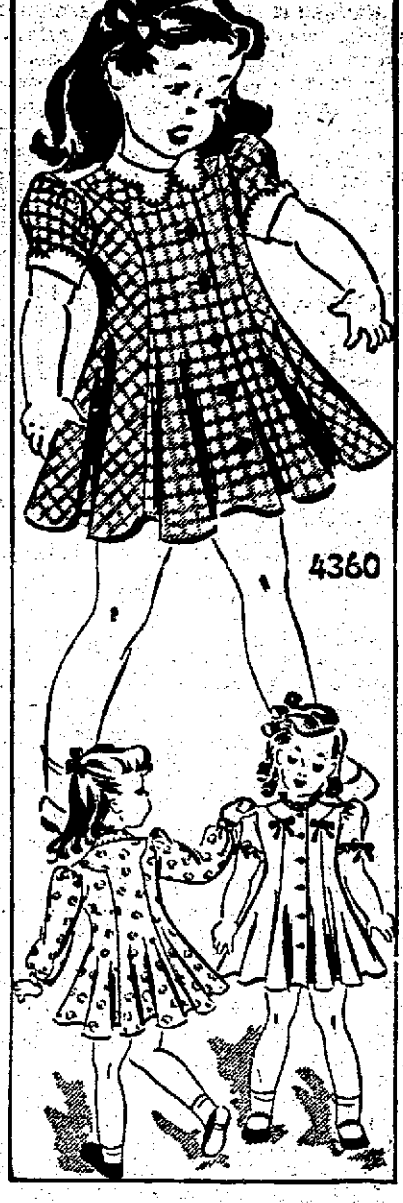

As for the intelligence of babies, we have no sure-fire tests of high reliability under the age of 2 years, when the revised Binet test now applies.

But the doctor can usually attest to the intelligence of the natural parents, which is a good guarantee of the child's mental horsepower or intelligence.

There are, however, a few practical guides of value. A normal child will smile at the 2nd or 3rd month. He will try to sit up alone at about 6 to 8 months, depending partly on his weight. They try to talk at about 12 months, though some may not speak till the age of 2 or 3 years. At 14 or 15 months, as an average, they begin to walk. By all means, adopt children, if you can't have your own, and don't stop with less than two.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing stamped, self-addressed envelope and 5¢ to cover typing or printing costs when you seek personal advice or one of his psychological charges.)

Little Praise, Attention Will Keep Wives Contented

BY DOROTHY DIX

A man wants to know what's the matter with wives and why so many married women who apparently are sitting pretty on top of the world, with every comfort and luxury provided by a devoted husband, are peevish and fretful, disgruntled and given to lamenting their sad lots.

Dorothy Dix

Well, perhaps the first reason why there are so many disillusioned wives is because such a number of them have been sold pieces of blue sky by the glib-talking youths who represented marriage to them as a perpetual petting party. They were led to believe that they were securing great lovers as life companions who could spend their time telling them how beautiful and wonderful and how different from all other women they were, breathing vows of passionate adoration into their ears.

And when they find they are united to just plain, ordinary citizens who are about as romantic as a ham sandwich, who drop all lovemaking at the altar and never mention the temperature of their affections again; who take them for granted and who hand out more knotty than bouquets, why, they just naturally feel that they have been duped and are sore about it.

Another thing that is the matter with wives is that they have not fitted themselves for the career to which they have elected themselves. They haven't learned their trade. They don't know how to keep house, cook, market or run a budget. They are just as ignorant of how to house-break a husband as they are of how to tame a lion. They are bungling amateurs in the most complicated of all professions. And so it is no wonder that they wear themselves out and get discouraged, nervous, cross and fretful, wrestling with tasks that an expert could turn out with one hand tied behind her.

Another thing that is the matter with wives is that their husbands so seldom give them the glad hand. No other laborer on earth toils so many hours a day as does the domestic woman who does her own cooking, washing, sewing, mending and baby-tending, but her husband rarely gives her any credit for performing herculean tasks that would give him a case of nervous prostration.

On the contrary, he assumes that she leads a life of idleness and ease, and often expresses the wish that he had it soft as she does. Now it is human nature to long for appreciation, to want the stimulus of praise for work well done, as the reason many a wife slacks down in her housekeeping and sets the same soggy food on her table day after day is because she has got tired of stewing over the kitchen stove preparing a scrumptious dinner for a man who will fiddle it down like a pig without even giving a grunt of satisfaction.

The reason that many wives slump and lose all the charms for which their husbands married them is because their husbands do not pay up to them. A wife can't go on romantically in love with a man who treats her as if she were just a useful household gadget. Nor can she put much enthusiasm into a job that she has to perform because she gets no credit for it. She is a little bit of a miser, and she hoards up her love and affection like a miser hoards up his gold.

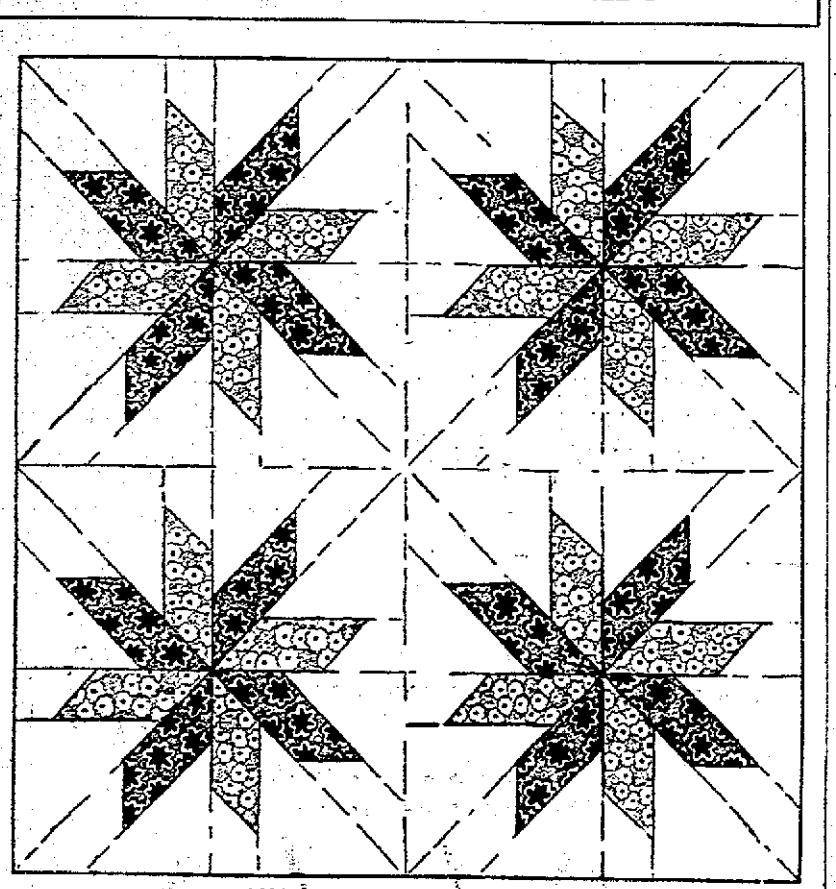

Nor can she be sparkling and entertaining when her wildest sallies only bring forth an "umph" from the stuffed shirt behind a newspaper. And what's the use of dressing up for a man who doesn't know whether she's comfortable or happy, a sloppy kisser? Ninety-nine times out of 100 it is only after husbands have ceased to regard their wives as Lady Loves that they give up the fight to keep themselves attractive and to make marriage something more than an endurance contest.

Finally, of course, there are many wives who are lazy and trifling and selfish, who are that way because they know that marriage is a job from which it is extremely difficult to fire a wife. They treat their husbands with an insolence with which they would not have dared treat their bosses in the days when they worked in a store or office. They do not work to earn the money they waste. They do not try to make their husbands comfortable or happy. They are grafter because their husbands cannot rid themselves of them without scandal and divorce.

Answer: When they speak of him in the hearing of strangers, they call him Mayor Jones, or else Mr. Mayor. But to him alone or when speaking for him to mutual friends they call him what they always have. Formally and correctly you say Mr. Mayor or you may call him Mayor Jones instead of Mr. Jones.

CASE P-135: Bobby, aged 2, is an attractive blue-eyed orphan.

"My husband and I are thinking of adopting Bobby," a young married woman explained.

"My doctor tells me I can never have babies of my own, but we had always planned so much on having a family."

"I have read your column on psychology regularly, so I know the loss of such a pet. But these pets are not of our 'flesh and blood'."

No Magic In Flesh and Blood

Furthermore, a man's own children may desert him in a crisis, or stab him in the back, figuratively if not even literally, unless they are trained to love their father.

Many children will cheat and steal from their own aged mothers and gamble the homes right out from under their parents. Yet they are of the same flesh and blood as their parents.

Dismiss from your minds, therefore, the false belief that virtue and honor and morality flow along inherited pathways. We are born neither angels nor devils. We are neutral at the outset, but later develop into villains or noble, unselfish men and women, depending upon our training.

The old belief that some people are "born criminals" is entirely false. If Bobby becomes a criminal after his adoption by this young couple, it will be a result of their mistakes in rearing him and not a reflection on his natural parents.

Face Child's Facts

An adopted child will love his foster parents and care for them devotedly if he has been properly trained. And they will soon be so fond of him that they forget he is adopted.

As for the intelligence of babies, we have no sure-fire tests of high reliability under the age of 2 years, when the revised Binet test now applies.

But the doctor can usually attest to the intelligence of the natural parents, which is a good guarantee of the child's mental horsepower or intelligence.

There are, however, a few practical guides of value. A normal child will smile at the 2nd or 3rd month. He will try to sit up alone at about 6 to 8 months, depending partly on his weight. They try to talk at about 12 months, though some may not speak till the age of 2 or 3 years. At 14 or 15 months, as an average, they begin to walk. By all means, adopt children, if you can't have your own, and don't stop with less than two.

Let's answer her last question first. He husband isn't her flesh and blood, either, but she loves the man devotedly. A man's wife is not his flesh and blood, but she may be far closer and dearer to him than any of his flesh and blood.

So you see that deep and abiding love may have nothing to do with "flesh and blood." Love is a cluster of habits, and habits are learned. They are not inherited.

Many of you readers have become so attached to a dog or cat or pony or horse, that you regarded the pet as almost a member of the family. It is not uncommon to see adults, as well as children, shed tears over you recommend that married folks have children, even if they must adopt them.

"But, Dr. Crane, we don't know anything about his parents. Suppose he should turn out to be a criminal? Or what if he wouldn't be intelligent? How do we know he might not become feeble-minded?"

"Dr. Crane, please reassure me. I am already fond of Bobby, but will we be able to love him as if he were our own flesh and blood?"

Schools Will Get 20 Cents of Each 1940 Tax Dollar

Second Largest Share of Kaukauna Levy Will Go to Cut Debts

Kaukauna — The largest part of every dollar spent by the city in 1940, a little over 20 cents, will go for the education of the school system, according to the $385,000 budget adopted by the common council. A tax rate of $27 per 1,000 of assessed valuation has been levied on Kaukauna's $3,823,000 real estate. The schools have been allotted $77,500, with the next highest item being $50,500 for floating indebtedness, or 13 cents on the dollar. Spent for city salaries will be 9.6 cents, a total of $37,000, with 91 cents, $35,000, for bonds and interest. The poor fund requires $30,000, 7.7 of each taxpayer's dollar. Last year only 5.1 cents went to this fund.

Remainder Divided

Other departments and the amount of each tax dollar they will receive are as follows: Roads, sewers and WPA material and supplies, 7.5 cents; general fund, mostly for street lighting and bridges, 5.6 cents; city expenses, for offices, rent, elections, supplies and insurance, 4.8; hydrant rental, fire and police department expenses, 4.7; city salaries, 3.9; playgrounds, 2 cents; public library, 1.3 cents; commercial and industrial development, 5 cents; bonds and interest, 9.1 cents; public health, 2.8 cents. The county's tax levy is $48,000, demanding 12.6 cents. The state gets $1,700, or 4 cents. Estimated receipts for the city include $10,000 income tax, $30,000 from the utility, $7,200 state liquor tax, $8,188 gas and auto tax, $3,000 aid for local streets and $800 aid for connecting street, and $8,446 of local receipts.

Salary Cuts Voted at Teachers Colleges

Madison — The board of normal regents Thursday ordered a 6 per cent salary reduction for all employees of the board and nine state teachers colleges receiving more than $1,800 a year.

The reduction will affect approximately 475 teachers and other employees and will apply during the remainder of the fiscal year ending next June 30.

Secretary Edgar G. Doudna said the economies were necessary because of a $45,000 cut in appropriations made by the state emergency board.

The reduction for this fiscal year will amount to about $25,000. Salary schedules for the term starting in the fall of 1940 will be arranged later, he said.

The board had planned to limit the wage cut to those earning more than $2,000 a year, but found this would not meet the savings required by the reduced budget.

American Safety Zone Respected, Lawrence States

Ships Flying United States Flags Have Not Been Attacked

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Washington — The American flag aboard a ship at sea is the safest in all the world. The four months of war have passed without a single attack on an American vessel by the submarines or warships of any belligerent nation.

Although the United States had between 35 and 40 ships in the war zones and has since managed to bring them out of those areas, not a single attack on an American vessel was made by any of the warring nations.

As for the Atlantic ocean in proximity to North and South American coasts, there is absolutely no evidence that any submarine of a belligerent government has ever visited what is known as the safety zone—the 300-mile trip along the coasts of both continents.

Several weeks ago, President Roosevelt mentioned an unverified report concerning the sighting of submarines in the Caribbean, but subsequent investigation by government agencies disclosed that the report was without foundation. Travel, therefore, between North and South American neutral ports is safe for neutral ships.

The Graf Spee episode is in no sense a contradiction of these assurances concerning the safety of travel for Americans in the South Atlantic or the Caribbean. A distinction is drawn naturally between surface warships and submarines. The presence of surface vessels of belligerent powers has been known since the start of the war, but neither the British cruisers nor the German pocket battleships have ever attacked any American vessels. When the naval battle was fought the other day, neutral shipping was in no way interfered with.

Needed Near Home
American officials feel that German submarines are needed in European waters by the Nazis and that it would be a waste of naval forces to send any to South Atlantic waters, to say nothing of the difficulties of refueling such submarines.

Occasionally, the British will stop an American ship and make inquiries as to her identity to make sure that no disguises are being used by German freighters, but the regular passenger vessels traveling between North and South American ports are well known to the British fleet. Even the occasional stopping of a vessel involves no danger, because the British do not sink neutral vessels. If the latter carry contraband cargo, the chances are a hundred to one that stoppage for inspection purposes only would not cause any delay to the American ship's voyage.

On the whole, the North and South Atlantic is cleared of any menace to American ships and the reason is partly the effective cruising done by the British fleet, and partly the fact that no German submarines can very well operate at great distances from their base. Another reason is the apparently well-founded belief which exists here that Germany does not intend to risk any complications with the United States government over submarine attacks on ships flying the American flag—the very thing that brought the United States into the last war on the side of the allies.

Neutral Shipping
Officials of the American government are by no means discouraged by the fact that occasionally belligerent warships engage in naval attacks or take prizes in North and South Atlantic waters. The development of the safety zone of 300 miles width along the coasts was not for the purpose of establishing a patrol or of enforcing complete elimination of warships of belligerent powers. It is recognized that the belligerent ships will rove the seas and chase enemy vessels right into territorial waters. What the safety zone was intended for was to keep neutral shipping absolutely safe from attack.

There has been no official acceptance by Great Britain of the safety zone idea for the very reason that it can be used by German ships to slip along the coast for thousands of miles and elude patrols. Undoubtedly, the Columbus, the big German luxury liner, and the freighter Arauca, which put in at a Florida port this week, hoped to take a course that would avoid contact with the British patrols. The safety zone could in these respects be used to Britain's disadvantage.

Constructive Attempt
But, from the standpoint of the Pan-American republics, the safety zone represents the first constructive attempt to insist on neutral rights which has appeared in the present war. European neutrals are suffering. Their ships are being destroyed by German submarines and mines. But in this hemisphere neutral rights are being asserted and, incidentally, are being respected.

Naval battles like that of the Graf Spee are the exception rather than the rule, and even these are in no sense a menace to neutral shipping, which can see and hear a naval engagement miles and miles off and alter a course to avoid it. It's the submarine and floating mine which really menace neutral shipping, and neither of these is in North or South Atlantic waters. The American republics intend to trade with one another and engage in an extensive tourist traffic, now that Europe is barred to them. The safety zone, so far as neutral merchant ships are concerned, has been and, according to the best available information in official quarters, will continue to be respected.

Despite the increase in the number of new chemical industries and the marked expansion of established industries, unemployment in the chemist, profession is generally found in the lowest levels, reports the American Chemical Society.

tion of an inch, and buried itself, as he discovered by a careful search later, in a birch tree beyond him. The second clipped his coat collar. There were no more because he dropped down instantly behind a big stump, and stayed there for several minutes. The shot had come from the river bank, and as he dropped he had an instantaneous glimpse of a man's figure outlined against the sky through the trees.

"So?" he said to himself as he waited there. "I know too much, eh? And the inquest is tomorrow?"

Tuck came running out of the house. Michael stood up hastily before she saw where he had been and started off toward her. The gentleman with the gun would not remain in his present position for more than a second or two. An idea struck him.

"Go back to the house, honey," he said. "Gordon's got a new rifle, and I promised to help him break it in. I'll be in in a few minutes."

"Was that what I heard?" she asked, her face clearing.

"Yes. And d'ye mind looking for that tennis racket with the red handle? Dave wants it back. Look for it now, will you?"

"Um," she said as she went back. "That would keep her in the house, in safety," he told himself.

He raced back down the path to the river fork, and went swiftly across through the trees. He stood on the edge of the bank, and looked down-stream. There was no one in sight. Cautiously, keeping well inside the line of trees, he followed down the bank until he was even with the Horsehoe. There was no one, and no trace of anyone.

He dropped shells, cigarette cases or anything that an obliging would-be murderer really should leave behind him.

He went back to the house. "I can't find that old racket," Tuck said as he came in the door. "I don't remember that you ever had one with a red handle, Michael."

"Well, perhaps I gave it back," he said vaguely. "Where's Charlotte Jean?"

"She doesn't know."

"Oh?" Michael wandered out into the kitchen. Charlotte Jean was folding clothes.

Michael peered himself on the corner of the table. "How's your boy friend these days?" he asked.

"My boy friend, Mr. Michael? Which one do you mean, then?"

"The newest one. The pocket size edition. Higgins. By the way, was he ever overseas, Charlotte Jean?"

"Yes, Mr. Forrester, I think he was. Did he ever happen to tell you whether or not he's a good shot?"

"Yes, Mr. Forrester, he did. He is. A very good shot, he says."

"These men are gay deceivers," Michael told her gloomily.

"Yes, indeed, sir. As for Higgins—I think the little man's crazy, sir."

"From The Golf Course?"

"Why?"

"Because he is, Mr. Michael. You'll maybe have heard I told Mrs. Forrester about the money he's coming into. I didn't so much as mention that I'd told Mrs. Forrester before he fair flew off at me. He

Safety Zones May be Created in Finland

Berne, Switzerland — (AP) — Finland announced Thursday through its Bernese legation that safety zones for children, sick and aged persons to escape the war would be created in Finland if the Soviet government agrees.

The announcement was made in reply to a proposal put forward to both Finland and Russia Dec. 5 by an international zone committee at Geneva.

No reply has been received yet from Moscow.

Under the plan, zones would be created in both Finland and Russia under control of a neutral commission to care for expectant mothers, children, the aged and infirm. Both governments would refrain from aerial or land war in these zones.

THE WESTERN POWERS AND THE FINNS:

England and France declare they will give all material aid to Finland that does not interfere with their war against Germany.

Germany has been brushed aside in existing war conditions and England and France better recognize that fact.

They need not be so soft in handling Russia because, when the time is ripe, Russia will not be soft in handling them.

It was quite all right for them to avoid another party to the war. But the other party has both feet in the war already.

Russia pulled out the Trojan horse again when Poland fell. It sent in its army but proclaimed loudly and fiercely to the world that it would never participate in war, was only concerned in peace and was presently interested in lifting from the ground part of prostrate Poland. Then it began taking away strategic points from other Baltic states until it struck Finland. And the Finns with the true blood of the Vikings and a better understanding of the Soviets than the rest of the world stood their ground. Then Russia threw all pretense of peace to the winds and marched.

Do not England and France understand that Russia is merely trying to solidify her forces and fortify her positions before she throws all her forces into the effort to destroy the democracies outright?

The first place for the western powers to fight this war is in Finland. The Finns will need more men as against the swarms and hordes of Mongols now being shot into the fray. Probably with their higher courage and intelligence they can defeat Russian armies as high as ten to one against them. The Germans did in World War No. 1. But Russia can throw in twenty to one against them and win after their rifles have melted with the heat of shooting.

Moreover a supremely gallant action helps typify a conflict just as the Belgian resistance 25 years ago gained for the Kaiser the denunciation of the world and for his adversaries the happy and colorful role of protector of the small but courageous.

Certainly in all the tragic pages of resistance to brutal and bully attack a minute search must be made to find a page more magnificent than that the Finns are writing today.

THE WRONG MAN COMMITTED SUICIDE

It is said that Captain Hans Langsdorff of the Graf Spee committed suicide because of a "code of the sea" that demands that a captain perish with his boat.

There is no such code of the sea. There is a code that is woven of men's strength and women's tears, a code of care and love, that protects the weak and the lowly and exposes the high and the strong. But it makes no such foolish demand as to call for suicide when a ship has been destroyed deliberately on specific orders and every living being has been judiciously saved. Captain Langsdorff was of the character the world will sorely miss. He was that gruff, duty-performing but friendly and good-natured German the rest of the world likes to think typical of the Reich. His suicide is generally received, even by those who wish the German navy no good, as a sad touch to an otherwise very sad affair.

The Graf Spee came to disaster because it was sent on a fool's errand against odds that no sort of scale of courage could ever overcome. If anyone were to commit suicide it should be he who is responsible for sending the Graf Spee out to battle against the impossible.

Strange to say Thomas Masaryk, first president and national hero of Czechoslovakia, came originally into prominence by delivering a series of lectures at Vienna on "Suicide" as a pathological symptom of the condition of Europe; and he attributed its chief cause to the decline of genuine religious sentiments. It was Bismarck who said that "if this world were the end of all it would not be worth the dressing and the undressing."

Captain Hans appears with the lineaments of greatness. He had that unbounded courage to take the Great Adventure with as little ruffle as he set out upon a day's work. And although to do so he abandoned the ocean for the Dark River his figure fades into the distance as symbolic of a race deserving of much better leadership than it has had from that unfortunate day when the crippled Wilhelm came to power.

THIS SUBJECT OF ANNUITIES
Senator Wagner of New York said some weeks ago that he was preparing amendments to the Social Security Act which would provide the sale of annuities by the federal government.

To support this procedure he said that the federal government could sell these annuities 30 per cent cheaper than insurance companies and that the latter wouldn't be concerned anyway since his proposal limited the annuities to those of a maximum of $100 a month, and the insurance companies were not interested in such small fry.

But Mr. Murphy, president of the Actuarial Society of America, ripped Mr. Wagner's statements to pieces in such disastrous manner, that, until the senator replies, one is inclined to suspect he did not investigate his subject very carefully.

Mr. Murphy brings forth the records. And the records speak volumes. They show a very lively interest of the life insurance companies in small contracts. Nineteen of the important companies who wrote 45 million dollars worth of annuity business in 1938 say that 92 per cent of all the contracts written by them were for $100 a month or less.

Mr. Murphy spoke even more directly when he approached the claim that the government could do this business cheaper than the insurance companies. And he concluded, with stacks of evidence to support him, that the only way the government can furnish something cheaper than someone else is to lose money at it and then ask the general taxpayer to pay the difference, one of the funniest systems of running a government ever devised.

Our life insurance companies are, for the most part, the pride of America. If man-made fortresses could withstand the shocks that they have withstood and come out with colors flying then man-made fortresses would be much stronger than they are today. And life insurance companies, although nine-tenths of them are mutual, pay fabulous sums of taxes to the government.

Mr. Murphy did not touch very pointedly upon a political implication back of Senator Wagner's act because he is not a politician. But whenever the government wants to get its hands into a lot of premiums it may at least be suspected of desiring more funds to spend and that these premiums will go the same way as the Workers' Pension Fund,—into paying part of the expense of our huge Praetorian army of officeholders at Washington.

THE HONOR OF RELIEFERS

We have been reading a lot of bothersome news about the rogues who get upon the relief rolls and live off the public for years while they have ample bank accounts.

Now let us look at the better side of the picture. The city of New York acknowledges that relief recipients who had found jobs or otherwise became able to pay turned back voluntarily into the city treasury last year approximately $300,000. We haven't immediately at hand New York's total expenditures for relief and we have no doubt that this is a small percentage but it represents some very grand people.

It portrays men and women of honor and integrity, grateful for the help received in time of great need and disdainful of becoming public charges merely because it is very easy so to do.

We have no doubt that many of these people returned the money to the city while they were still on the ragged edge of necessity, some probably in precarious financial condition. All the more to their honor. They are the worthwhiles. Give them anything like an even break and they will make good. No wonder most of them have jobs now. Any sort of an alert employer could hardly have missed such splendid human material. But everyone still on relief or who may find relief necessary some time in the future is aided and should be stimulated by the gallant action of these people who have done so much to convince the public of the fact that misfortune spares no one and very often settles down upon those who deserve it least.

WHEN TO HOLD TONGUE

Jed Thomas was a bad man. And yet from his life, and particularly from his last moment on earth, something of wisdom might be taken which could be made to benefit American public life immensely.

Jed was a horse thief. He was a train robber. He was a scoundrel and a roughneck. At one time he was reputed to be a member of the Younger gang of outlaws.

But finally came the day when he found himself standing beneath a tree with a rope around his neck. He heard the sheriff asking if he had any last remarks to make. And he responded:

"I've stole lots of hosses, I admit. I've robbed trains, and I might add that I've killed a dozen sheriffs or so. But I ain't got nothin' to say on this here occasion. I just don't feel in the mood to make a speech. Words don't come just right. I couldn't do myself justice, and I don't want to hurt my reputation."

Of course public men are pestered to make a great many unnecessary speeches. And they are tempted to coin something new, remarkable or spectacular. They may have the opinion they are fathering a cause or a reputation. But in that respect they do not show that final gleam of good sense which Jed Thomas evidenced on a solemn, and to him, conspicuous, occasion.

DALE HARRISON'S
In Old New York

New York—Greetings: There are styles, of course, in Christmas Cards; that is, it is not enough merely to say: "Merry Christmas." It must be said in the mode.

The Greeting Card theme this Christmas is "Peace." They certainly picked a heck of a year for it. This year "Peace"—next year, the way things look, "Pieces." So, at least, it themes to me.

I get my information straight from the card publishers themselves. I don't know where they get it. Maybe they convene and choose their Christmas themes deliberately, or maybe they pick them out of a hat. I didn't pry into that angle. All I know is that this year's theme is Peace.

The general tone of Christmas Cards is serious. Religious cards are more numerous than in many years. There aren't as many Greetings in the light, humorous vein. The card makers have assumed the Christmas public is sober-minded. They have gone in for beauty and rich simplicity. Jewel tone color treatments are fashionable.

There is, too, an etiquette of Greeting Cards. You can't just slap a card into an envelope and send it out any old way. A lot depends, of course, on the sender's viewpoint. Some couples retain the formal "Mr. and Mrs. Younger" and prefer the "Joe and Jane Doe" form, and it doesn't matter who gets top billing, Joe or Jane.

It is o.k., the Greeting Card people say, to send Greeting Cards in unsealed envelopes with 1¢ cent stamps. Etiquette authorities, however, disagree. They say second-class postage makes the card a second-class sentiment. Nice people, they are sure, will apply first class postage.

It doesn't matter much to me. Instead of cards this year I'm sending everybody diamond rings. I like—Fresh, warm Caramel Rolls. A bright light to read by. The coloring in maple leaves in late autumn—a swell paint job. Seven-dice and aces-in-the-hole. Rocking chairs. Cold, creamy milk before going to bed. Day old chicks (too bad so many grow up to be old hens). Gray Gordon—a nice guy. A cigarette with my coffee, and coffee with every meal. Contributions from readers (50 Rockefeller Plaza, New York). That hand crocheted muffler, the first Yule gift. The view of old Manhattan after dark from the Staten Island ferry—a real view for a nickel. Joe Emerson's "Hymns of All Churches." Plenty of sugar in lemonade. Auction sales on the farm, especially the midday lunch. Executives over 50 (it takes most of them that long to learn their manners). To re-read books I like (and whatever happened to my set of the "Deerfoot" series by Edward S. Ellis, in which someone was always saying: "Die, you dog of a Winnebago"). The pathos of rich men trying to be one-of-the-boys. And the unquenchable verbal audacity of George Bernard Shaw.

But I don't like—Merchants who never seem to have change for $10 (and pals who never seem to have the ten). Unexpected guests who say: "Don't cook anything special for us. We'll eat what you have" (and they do). Women who never take off their fur coats in night clubs (we know you've got it, sister). People who tell me a good story and then add: "But of course you can't print it." Acquaintances who ask for passes. Pals who, out for the evening, keep saying: "Excuse me a minute, boys, I gotta call up the Little Woman" (like First Graders asking teacher if they can leave the room). Whole wheat bread. Hot water taps that give out with the cold. Fellows who brag about their romantic conquests. Chicken wings (but that's what I get). Amateur vocalists (the professionals are mediocre enough). Masquerade parties. Self-made magicians who come up, poke a deck of cards under my nose, and say: "Take a card, any card. G'wan, take a card."

And Broken Promises. The interesting-if-true Dept.: John J. Anthony, who tells people over the air how to solve their problems, says there has been a sharp falling off in recent months of mother-in-law troubles. "I don't know why," he adds, "but it begins to look like the mother-in-law problem is slowly dying out." That ain't the way I heard it, Johnny.

Other officers elected were: Alvin Woehler, senior councilor, Vincent Burgess, junior councilor, and Lawrence Oosterhouse, scribe.

A Verse for Today

By Anne Campbell

THE BELLS OF CHRISTMAS

Her father was a country doctor many years ago. And when he made a Christmas call in an emergency, He used to take her with him for a sleigh ride, and the snow Came down to make of every elm and oak a Christmas tree.

She took her brand-new dolly and a soapstone for her feet; A buffalo robe over her, she nestled, snug and warm, Into the cushions of the cutter's comfortable seat, And felt behind her head the loving warmth of Daddy's arm.

There are no sleigh bells ringing in the city where she dwells. But always in the Yuletide she can hear them sounding clear. There is no dear old Daddy harking to the jingling bells, For she has been without him now for many a long year.

But when the church bells peal so joyfully on Christmas Day, She wakens from a dream of home to find she is alone, And all the happiness of childhood is too far away. She must not reach into the past for gladness that has flown.

So into some one's empty hands she heaps her pretty dreams, And scatters joy the whole day long, her eyes two happy wells. The sunshine of the snow-white past across the present gleams, And she can hear her father's voice above the Christmas bells.

A Bystander
In Washington

BY PRESTON GROVER

Washington—The day of the Congressional "killer" investigation has arrived to displace the long series of whoop-er-up investigations designed to put across pet pieces of legislation.

Most of the methods adopted by the one are about as fantastic as those of the other.

Two "killer" investigations are underway and a third has already completed its work. The Smith committee investigating the National Labor Relations Board has already brought out enough evidence of dissension and peculiar performances to put the board's life in some jeopardy at the coming session of Congress.

The Dies committee was largely credited with bringing about the defeat of Frank Murphy last year in his race for reelection as Governor of Michigan. It is adding to the shelling directed by the Smith committee at the Wagner Act.

The House investigation of WPA activities last summer killed the Federal Theater Project by exposing an over-dosage of Communist influence.

The Alder Pattern
What a contrast are these to the pattern of earlier investigations of the type which began with the securities and banking investigation in 1933 and 1934. Banking practices, stock market manipulations and phoney security flotations were paraded before the incredulous eyes of a newly critical Congress and a country at large, both of which were smarting under the scourge of the depression. Out of it came the Securities and Exchange Commission and a volume of legislation designed to make good bankers out of bad bankers and to wipe out trick security issues altogether. It has worked so effectively that now the cries arise from the other direction—that regulation is stifling enterprise.

The Insull debacle brought a demand for drastic utility reform. The holding company bill resulted. At the hour of a crucial test as to the kind of teeth it would have, the Black anti-lobbying investigation got busy. A utility company had tried to drum up an appearance of public antipathy to the bill by sending in a volume of protests.

Unfortunately, most of the protesters had names beginning with letters C to G. An enterprising utility company agent in Pennsylvania had simply picked up a telephone book and began dispatching telegrams signed by directory names as fast as he could copy them. The committee caught him before he reached the Jones Smiths and Zilchens. It had a three day caucus out of that. Other utility protests, many quite valid, were discredited and the bill was whooped across.

Wheeler Half Successful
It took two years of munitions investigation to reveal a degree of corruption in the international munitions trade and to raise some real questions about what got us into the last war. But the result of that investigation was the neutrality act which has troubled the administration ever since.

Senator Wheeler of Montana conducted a virtually one-man investigation of railroads to help him jam across some regulatory rail legislation. Much of it, however, is still on the calendar and in these days of increasing prestige for the once-spurned banker and big business man, it hasn't such a good chance of passing.

A House tax investigation pilloried several dozen greater and lesser tax dodgers to help whip across the corporate surplus tax and the tax against personal holding companies. It took a resurgence of the depression to shut what got us into the last war, temporarily at an rate, the shoe is on the other foot. The left winger is no longer the potential savior of his country and the bringer of greater liberties. The Dies committee has made him merely a member of a "transmission belt" toward Communism.

Just a Step
Behind the News

By Dave Boone

Only a few days more to look through last year's list of Christmas card senders and try to remember who some of the senders are.

Christmas had better come along as fast as possible if there's to be much peace on earth. Millions of husbands and wives are on the point of severing relations right now as a result of violations of their treaty rights on carrying home the bundles.

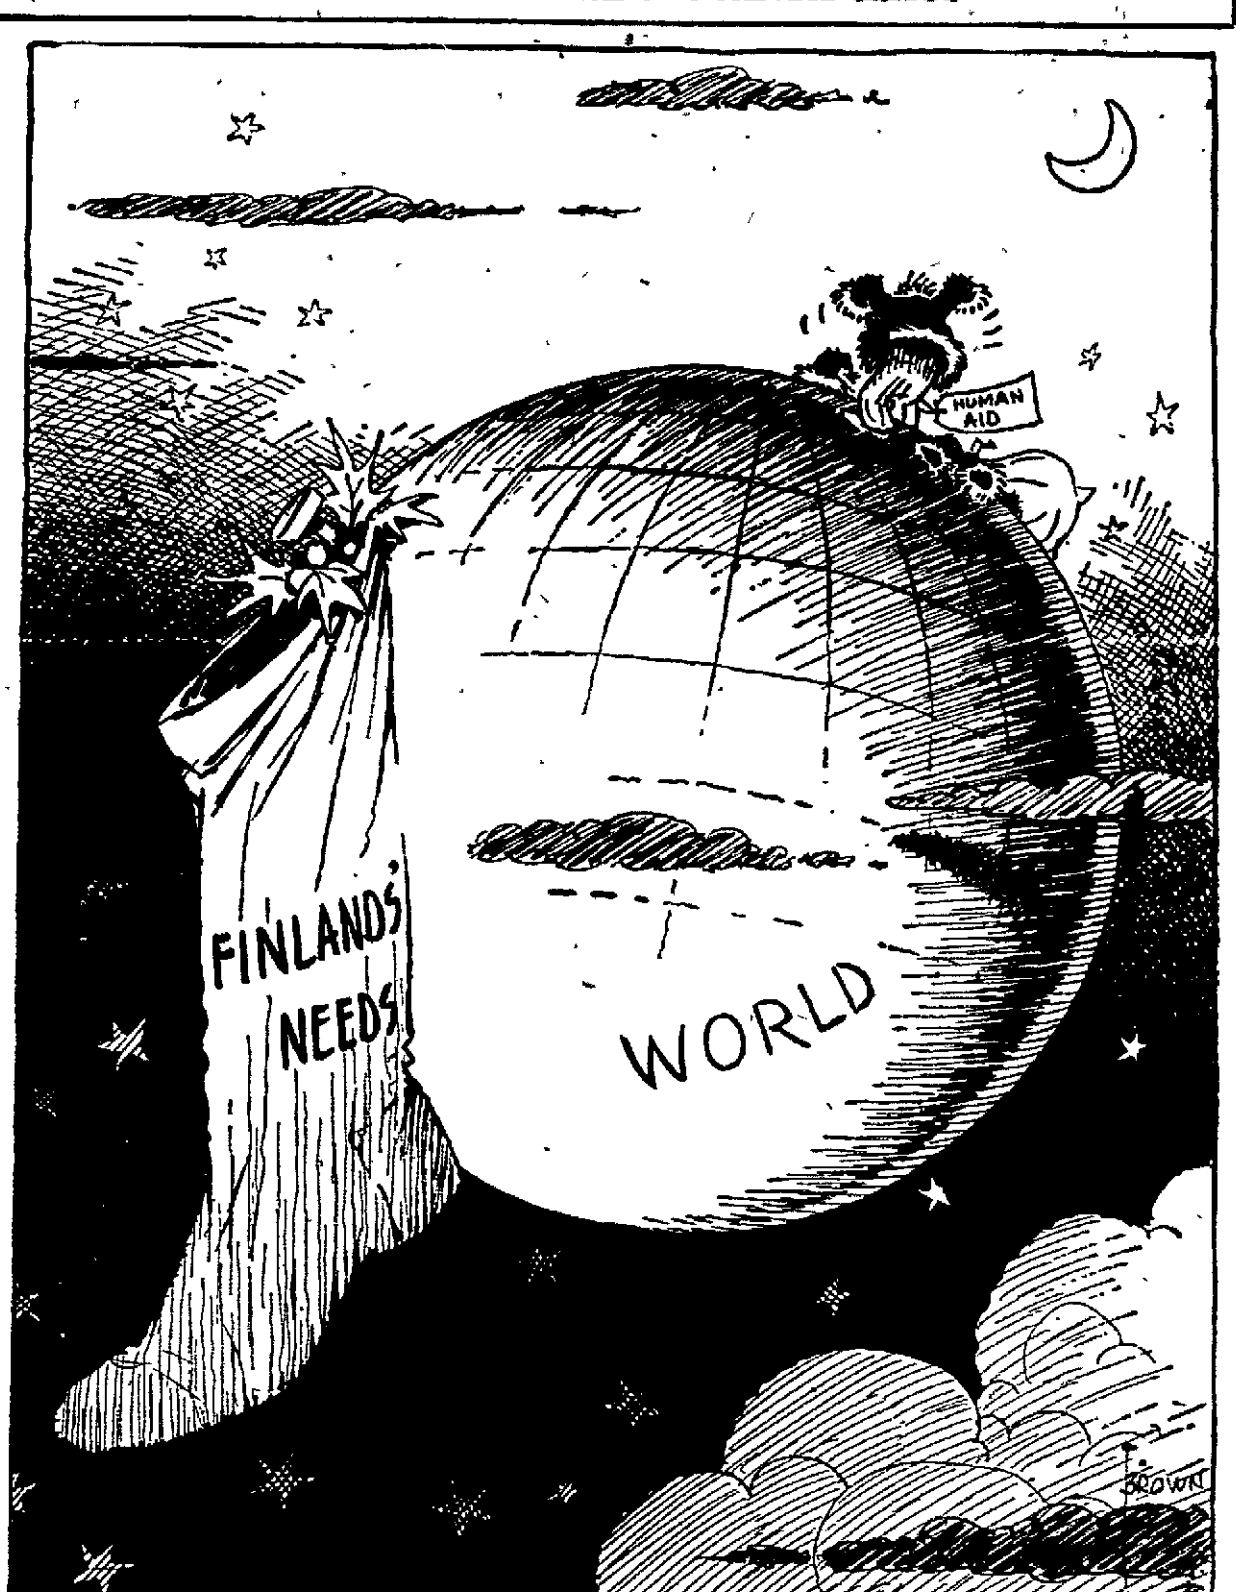

Any man who has been caught in a shopping jam knows what it means to be really "encircled." And he has a fair idea of what constitutes a counter-attack with pursuit if he hasn't submitted meekly to being stepped on in the elevators.

It might be a pretty fair Christmas if the leaders of those warring countries would only let themselves get sentimental for a few days. I wish they'd all get together, and give an order to scuttle those scuttlings and air raids and everything.

It's going to be tough this Christmas eve to have the kiddies cry out, "Daddy, there's a man on the roof in a gas mask. We're afraid he'll scare Santa Claus away." And have explain, "Children, that fellow in the gas mask is Santa Claus!"

COULDN'T FOLLOW THROUGH
Grand Island, Neb.—(P)—Three times, Richmond Robison of Delavan, Ill., was Illinois corn king. He topped production of other growers with 120 bushels of blue per acre. This year his record was 154 bushels an acre. But on his quarter section Nebraska farm, which he owns near here, Robison raised not a single ear of corn this droughty year.

OF COURSE THERE'S A SANTA CLAUS

Under the
CAPITOL DOME

BY JOHN WINGAARD

Madison—Although gubernatorial secretaries ordinarily are expected to hide their lights under a bushel or its equivalent, big, athletic William C. Maas, executive assistant to Governor Heil, is finding opportunities to let the public get acquainted with his talents.

Maas probably makes more public appearances than any other man of the Republican slate regime with the exception of the governor himself. He is Heil's favorite pinch-hitter, frequently the delicate job of appearing at a banquet or celebration which expected the governor and making a speech on behalf of his chief.

It is more than likely that Maas will be out this spring trying to do that which other candidates have been doing for more than 20 years, to defeat Mayor Daniel Webster Hoan of Milwaukee, most important and best known Socialist city government head in the country. Because the job of mayor in Milwaukee is pretty important, almost equivalent in financial responsibility to that of governor of the state, and because of the state-wide interest in Milwaukee mayoralty campaigns, Maas' tentative candidacy is a matter of general import.

He has several important attributes for politics, in the minds of his friends. He is a striking figure of a man, well over six feet, strongly built, erect and youthful appearing, deep chested, broad voiced. He has learned to make a good, albeit highly conservative speech. He has faced some pretty critical audiences in the last few months as pinch-hitter for Governor Julius. He has considerable personal means, and as a former president of the Milwaukee Association of Commerce has important and influential connections in commercial and industrial circles there.

Although his own experience as a politician is limited, and Milwaukee is a town where such experience counts, as one of the key figures of the Heil regime he could depend on that group of amateur politicians in Milwaukee business and industrial offices who left their businesses to their subordinates last fall and pitched in to aid Heil's campaign, with quite remarkable results.

PERSONALITY
His experience as a politician by necessity in the capacity of executive secretary in the governor's office during the last year has mellowed him considerably. While earlier callers at the office regarded him as excessively brusque and authoritative, an impression not gainsaid by his powerful physical appearance and a consistently sober countenance, he is really warm-hearted and possesses an excellent sense of humor, say his friends.

After spending his life in Milwaukee business pursuits,—he now runs a fuel company,—he does his job in the capitol with zest and energy, despite its drawbacks. Possibly his assignment is even more difficult, in human relationships, than that of Heil. He is the buffer between the 3,000,000 citizens who constitute the Wisconsin public and the person of the governor. He side-tracks the cranks and the crack-pots who storm the office by postman and in person. Since no governor can possibly see all the people who

NAMBY-PAMBY DIET

Trying to tell how the human machinery works in the rigidly limited space available here daily is like explaining to your second wife via long distance why you will be several days late in returning home.

Due to modern refinements our national diet, according to good nutrition authorities, commonly provides insufficient calcium and vitamin D, insufficient vitamin B-complex and iron, and perhaps in many instances there are shortages of other mineral elements and of other essential vitamins, but these mentioned are the important ones. The vitamins are functionally related with the hormones or internal secretions in the body—such as thyroid, adrenin, estrogen and testosterone. Constant moderate deficiencies in intake of the essential vitamins probably (this is merely the notion of Ol' Doc Brady, remember) account for functional weakness or irregularity of the ductless glands in many cases.

At first thought it may seem a far cry from white bread and "purified" or partly digested cereal past to infantile anorexia nervosa, intestinal indigestion, celiac disease, malnutrition, or juvenile anemia or hypochromic anemia in adults, chronic fatigue and spinal curvature—it may seem so to you, it doesn't seem so to me. But then, demand to see him, his job is sometimes difficult.

His experiences have given him a rich store of anecdotes out of the short period of a year. One concerns a woman who came to see Heil to complain of her domestic troubles. Her husband was a worthless tramp, who used to beat her, she related. Among the list of grievances, she listed the fact that "we used to have a good crop of potatoes; now we don't have any potatoes."

Maas—courteously interested, wanted to know why; what had her husband to do with that? "We didn't plant any potatoes," she replied.

I am a bit hyped about vitamins, am I not?

It seems futile to talk about restoration of life to ghost, whether by requiring the use of a reasonable proportion of entire wheat for the making of bread or by requiring the addition of a reasonable part of the vitamin B-complex which has been removed in the refining of flour, also nutrition authorities are considering both of these prophylactic measures.

It is not unreasonable and not impracticable to procure and keep on hand a supply of plain wheat and use it in the daily dietary, if you control the food supply in your own home. I have a monograph "Wheat to Eat" which gives instructions for the use of wheat—send stamped envelope bearing your address and ask for it.

If you cannot control the food supply or preparation of food, then you can at any rate keep on hand a few pounds of wheat germ, and eat several tablespoonsful of it daily, to increase your intake of vitamin B-complex which is sadly deficient in the usual namby-pamby diet.

If you will not or cannot effect either of the adjustments mentioned, then at least you can lay in a supply of vitamin B-complex tablets and furiously chew or swallow three to six of them every day. Each tablet contains 150 international units of B1 (thiamin), so three to six probably give enough B to keep a normal person in fair functional health. One who gets enough vitamin B-complex daily will rarely have any iron shortage, for B-complex controls the assimilation of iron.

The other important deficiency of our namby-pamby diet is calcium and phosphorus, the assimilation, utilization and retention of which is controlled by vitamin D. Egg yolk, milk, cream, butter, oysters, fresh or canned salmon, sardines are virtually the only foods containing significant amounts of vitamin D. Milk, cheese, greens, peas, beans, nuts are the best food sources of calcium.

Club Hears About Roman Celebration

Members of Foedus Latinum, Latin club of Appleton High school, celebrated Christmas with a party Thursday afternoon. Games, songs and refreshments combined to suggest the spirit of the Roman Saturnalia.

Norma Crow explained the Saturnalia festival and the customs usual in its celebration for the group. The holiday, she explained, was on the twenty-fourth of December and was attended by a general spirit of merry-making and gift-giving. Many aspects of the festival were taken over by the early Christians and incorporated in the Christmas holiday.

A humorous reading, "Pompey's Christmas," was presented by Merrie Ebert. Mary Bob Knapp, program chairman, led the group in games. Dorothy Mader accompanied the club at the piano when the members sang carols in Latin.

Miss Knapp was assisted by Owen Brown and James Miller. On the refreshment committee were Gladys Mears, Bette Stevens, Elliot Jacobson and Tony Groh. Ellen Ehle, Dete Notaras and Dan Moser formed the clean-up corps. Faculty sponsors are Miss Elsie Koppin and Miss Enola Brandt, Latin instructors.

St. Mary Pupils Decorate Buildings In Holiday Attire

A creche, skillfully illuminated by pupils of the eighth grade, lighted the end of the upper corridor and a life-size Santa Claus smiled at the youngsters on the main floor.

Baskets were filled for the needy and toys were collected for children who have no other way of getting them. Parents visited classes during the week.

Today and Tomorrow

BY WALTER LIPPMAN

The War in This Hemisphere

The declaration of Panama has been put to a practical test by the battle which ended the career of the Admiral Graf Spee and by the chase which caused the German freighter Arauca to take refuge at Port Everglades.

The Spee was a commercial raider, and had sunk some fifty thousand tons of merchant shipping. She is said to have been chasing a merchant ship within the neutrality belt when she was caught by the British squadron.

The business of the Arauca has still to be determined. But it is known that she sailed from Vera Cruz a few days ago, and that she was supposed to be headed for New Orleans. Yet she was not in the Gulf of Mexico, but off the east coast of Florida in the Atlantic Ocean when the British cruiser fired a shot across her bow. More over, the Arauca is said to be carrying a cargo of Mexican oil, a strange cargo indeed for a German freighter if her destination was New Orleans. In the absence of convincing proof to the contrary, there is, therefore, a strong presumption that the Arauca was going out to refuel a Nazi commerce raider in the Atlantic Ocean.

The twenty-one American republics made the declaration of Panama on Oct. 3. They then asserted that "as a measure of continental self-protection" the "waters adjacent to the American Continent" should be "free from the commission of any hostile act by any non-American belligerent nation." The Admiral Graf Spee was undoubtedly committing hostile acts against the Allies. The British squadron undoubtedly committed hostile acts against the Admiral Graf Spee. The Arauca, if she was not carrying the oil to New Orleans or to Europe but to a Nazi commerce raider, was undoubtedly committing hostile acts against the Allies. And the British cruiser Orion was undoubtedly committing hostile acts against the Arauca.

Thus the twenty-one American republics are in the position of having asserted a right which they have failed to enforce. As a matter of fact, no such right exists under international law, and the claim to exclude all belligerent action from this zone, which the Congress of Panama "asserted," can be made effective only by inducing the belligerents to respect it by using force to compel them to respect it.

Small Chance That Belligerents Will Respect This Zone

There is no use imagining that the belligerents can be persuaded to respect the zone. As long as there are Nazi surface raiders and ocean-going submarines in the Atlantic, these ships of war are bound to come into the waters of this hemisphere. For, lacking bases on either side of the ocean, they can obtain fuel and supplies only from American ports. Therefore, there will be supply ships like the Arauca sailing from American ports to meet raiders.

That is why, apart from the emotional sympathy which Jefferson was untried to avoid, and beyond anything which can be ascribed to propaganda, the defeat of the Admiral Graf Spee was pleasing in all the Americas. It has shown that the British Navy is still able to deal with any other European navy, and that therefore, the ocean barrier behind which this hemisphere enjoys its isolation is still strongly and bravely and skillfully held.

the ocean of Nazi raiders, they will do well to adhere to the time-honored and well-tested rules of international law. They will police their territorial waters. They will enforce the code of the neutrals against the Araucas and, for the rest, they will let the Allies deal with the raiders. When the Allies have dealt with the raiders, and only then, will the ideal of the declaration of Panama have been realized in practice without abandoning the neutrality of the Americas.

The situation illustrates a truth which was well-known to Jefferson, Madison, and Monroe, though it is vehemently denied by some Americans of the present day. It is that the isolation of the western hemisphere from the wars of Europe is not due to the width of the Atlantic Ocean. The Admiral Graf Spee crossed the ocean, and the British cruisers crossed it and caught her. If they had not, how isolated was Uruguay and what could Uruguay have done about the Admiral Graf Spee? The ocean was no protecting barrier. It was in fact an open highway, and what makes Uruguay more isolated today than she was last Saturday is that Hitler scuttled the Admiral Graf Spee because the British Navy was too strong. Thus it is not the ocean which isolates this hemisphere, but a predominant navy in the hands of a power which can be trusted to respect the isolation of this hemisphere.

U. S. Isolation Depends On British Naval Strength

This truth was clearly realized by the three American Presidents who took part in framing the Monroe Doctrine. "Any one who doubts it should read the memorandum prepared in 1926 by the Under Secretary of State, Mr. J. Reuben Clark, particularly the correspondence in 1923 between President Monroe and ex-Presidents Jefferson and Madison. These men, who established the policy of hemisphere isolation, saw and said that, in the absence of a supreme American Navy which absolutely commands the seas, the isolation of this hemisphere depends upon the British control of the seas. For this, said Jefferson in writing to Monroe, brings "her mighty weight into the scale of free government" and emancipates "a continent at one stroke, which might otherwise linger long in doubt and difficulty."

"With her then," said this, the greatest apostle of American isolation, "we should most sedulously cherish a cordial friendship." For "with Great Britain withdrawn from her scale" that is from what Jefferson called "the lawless alliance" and "shifted into that of our two continents, into Europe combined would not undertake such a war, for how would they propose to get at either enemy without superior fleets?"

That is why, apart from the emotional sympathy which Jefferson was untried to avoid, and beyond anything which can be ascribed to propaganda, the defeat of the Admiral Graf Spee was pleasing in all the Americas. It has shown that the British Navy is still able to deal with any other European navy, and that therefore, the ocean barrier behind which this hemisphere enjoys its isolation is still strongly and bravely and skillfully held.

Hanes had wanted to quit last spring but had been prevailed upon to remain in the treasury of the business association, a position which he held for three years. "I am sorry to receive this letter of resignation," the chief executive told Hanes in correspondence made public a short time later at the White House, "but in view of the wish that you have repeatedly expressed to return as soon as possible to private life I am accepting it as of the date you sent, which is as of the close of business on Dec. 31 of this year."

"In accepting it I desire to express my deep and sincere gratitude for the conscientious, loyal and able service you have rendered to the government and to this administration both in the securities and exchange commission and in the treasury department."

"It is a record of good work done at personal sacrifice for which you should be honored and in which you are entitled to take the greatest pride. I hope that your future activities may bring you great success and great rewards."

Hanes had made known months ago his decision to retire from the treasury as soon as possible.

Dr. Culver Will Talk on Yuletide Program Tonight

Woman's Club Chorus to Sing: V. F. W. Official Speaks

Dr. Harry Culver, pastor of the Methodist church, will speak and the Appleton Woman's club chorus will sing on a Christmas program broadcast over WTAQ from 7:15 to 7:45 this evening.

The program will be presented over a loud speaker system to the intersection of Wisconsin avenue and Appleton street, where the Harvey Pierre post, Veterans of Foreign Wars and the North Side Business and Professional association have erected five Christmas trees. Les J. Meyers, manager of the Green Bay social security office, was the principal speaker at the program last evening, at which C. A. Lemke, president of the business association, presided and Mayor John Goodland, Jr., spoke.

Meyers in his speech said that "to build our first line of defense we must not lose sight of the fact that while peace is our ultimate objective, there is a greater force with which we must have this peace. This age-old tool is security. Security against all forces which have a tendency to tear down the moral of our people, against the inevitable moment when this country must make a decision as to the rights and privileges of Americans, against forces which will try to destroy our constitution, and against the threat of invasion."

Meyers, who is a member of the national administrative council of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, said that the "veteran of today, who, by his own action offered his life in actual battle overseas, should have a fairly good idea on this subject of war and peace."

The veteran, Meyers said, believes that "this country shall have and maintain sufficient elements of preparedness to make this country secure. No entangling alliances. A Monroe doctrine in fact as well as in deed, a program to take the profits out of war, a program to insure the great and small equal privileges in time of war, the old-time honored custom of huge profits for the war lords eliminated. Not a drop of American blood to be shed on foreign soil to protect someone's diplomatic blunders."

Appleton Streets How They Were Named

This is one of a number of brief articles telling how certain Appleton streets received their names. Much of the information in these articles comes from a survey made by Miss Anna L. Tenney, 724 E. Alton street.

Brewster street—From Richmond street to one block beyond Meade street, 14 blocks north of College avenue.

Named for George Brewster, who built the large house at the corner of Lawrence and Meade streets, now a part of the Lawrence Conservatory of Music. Brewster was born in Salem, Mass., and came to Appleton in 1853.

Brokaw place—From 821 E. South street, southeast of the river.

Named for Mrs. Norman Brokaw, who in 1931 bought the last lot of land purchased by a group of college professors and the Rev. F. C. Brayton. Six lots were sold and to complete the sale, Mrs. Brokaw took the last lot.

Calumet street—From 1930 S. Oneida street east to city limits and forming southern city limits.

Named for Calumet county, of which it is the northern boundary. The word calumet means pipe of peace in the Indian language.

Four Men Arrested in Liquor Raid are Freed
Shavano—United States Commissioner E. L. Aschenbrenner dismissed yesterday charges against four men arrested in a liquor raid on a Shawano county farm Oct. 23. At a hearing Nov. 10 defense attorneys argued that federal alcohol tax unit agents who made the raid held no search warrant and consequently acted without authority. The commissioner's decision came after a study of briefs.

The four were John Ollie of Milwaukee, Casimir Polczynski of Krakow, and Felix Zolkowski and his son Joseph of Krakow. They were arrested after the agents confiscated two large stills.

Tax Collection In Appleton Will Start Wednesday

Bills Will Be Placed in Mail the Day After Christmas

Preparation of some 8,500 pieces of mail containing real estate and personal property tax bills has been completed, according to Joseph A. Kox, city treasurer.

Kox said the bills will be placed in the mail the day after Christmas, to avoid the rush, and the tax collection officially will start at 9 o'clock Wednesday morning.

It will be the first collection in the new city hall and the treasurer reminded taxpayers of the fact today so they won't waste footsteps calling at the vacated quarters over the library.

Real estate and personal property taxes may be paid in full up to March 1 without penalties or again may be paid in two installments of 50 per cent each, the first installment not later than March 1 and the second not later than July 31.

The interest charge on the extended portion of the tax has been reduced from 1 per cent to a half of 1 per cent this year. Second installments not paid before July 31 become delinquent and will bear interest from Jan. 1 at the rate of 3 per cent per month.

Kox asked taxpayers to present original and duplicate bills when making payments either by mail or in person. He warned property owners to examine the bills carefully to see that they properly describe the property billed. He said the tax collector is not responsible for taxes paid on wrong descriptions.

Kox said about 750 pieces of mail carrying tax bills all over the nation will be sent out Saturday. Bills will go to California, Maine, Texas, Florida, Oregon and many other states.

Whether Santa Claus will go by wheel or sled probably will not be decided until Christmas eve because the weatherman predicts "snow or rain Sunday." Warmer weather is predicted tonight and Saturday with increasing cloudiness tomorrow.

Holiday motorists will find generally clear roads in Illinois and southern Wisconsin, according to the Chicago Motor club. Snow-covered highways in northern Wisconsin have been opened for traffic while driving conditions in northern Indiana and lower Michigan were slippery, but improving hourly. Automobile traffic in most of western New York was halted by the season's first snow storm.

Forecasters G. E. Dunn said some snow would blow into the north central states late tomorrow but said it would change to rain Sunday, making the prospects of a white Christmas still doubtful.

Highest and lowest temperatures during the 24-hour period preceding 8 o'clock this morning were 33 degrees at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon and 17 degrees at 8 o'clock this morning, according to records at the power plant of the Wisconsin Michigan Power company.

Maximum and minimum temperatures in the nation yesterday as reported at official weather bureau stations were 78 degrees at Los Angeles, Calif., and 3 degrees at Park Falls, Wis., according to the Associated Press.

Auto Is Damaged by Hit-and-Run Driver

Dewitt W. Inglis, Chicago, pleaded guilty of failing to stop and give his name and address after an accident and was fined $5 and costs by Judge Thomas H. Ryan in municipal court this morning.

A car driven by Robert Falenkrug, 21, 603 E. Fremont street, was struck by the hit-and-run driver as it was parked on S. Appleton street about 7:45 last night. City police made the arrest.

Cars driven by Donald J. Heinrich, 18, 1425 N. Appleton street, and Marvin Witt, 33, 420 S. Memorial drive, were damaged in a collision at the intersection of Gillett and Commercial streets about 8:30 yesterday morning. Heinrich was going south on Gillett street and Witt east on Commercial street when the collision occurred, it was reported to police.

Arterial Jumper Is Fined After Accident

John Prust, 39, route 1, Black Creek, pleaded guilty of failure to stop for an arterial and was fined $1 and costs by Judge Thomas H. Ryan in municipal court this morning.

City police arrested Prust following an accident at 12:15 yesterday afternoon involving a truck driven by Prust and a car driven by Ernest Krueger, 31, 708 E. Circle street. Prust was going north on Drew street and Krueger east on Wisconsin avenue, and the collision occurred when Prust failed to stop for the arterial, according to police.

Pleds Not Guilty of Driving Recklessly

Theodore Genskow, route 3, Clintonville, pleaded not guilty of reckless driving when he appeared before Judge Thomas H. Ryan in municipal court yesterday afternoon and trial was set for Dec. 28. Genskow, who was arrested by county police, was released under bond of $200.

Santa Claus May Not be Able To Use His Sleigh This Year

The first day of winter dawned crisp and clear in Appleton and vicinity today and the bright sun boosted mercury in the thermometer on the roof of the Post-Crescent building up to 31 degrees early this afternoon, threatening what little snow there is left from this week's wheels.

Whether Santa Claus will go by wheel or sled probably will not be decided until Christmas eve because the weatherman predicts "snow or rain Sunday." Warmer weather is predicted tonight and Saturday with increasing cloudiness tomorrow.

Holiday motorists will find generally clear roads in Illinois and southern Wisconsin, according to the Chicago Motor club. Snow-covered highways in northern Wisconsin have been opened for traffic while driving conditions in northern Indiana and lower Michigan were slippery, but improving hourly. ### Settlement Made Bondholders in Clay Firm Case

Agree to Payment of $75,000 by First Trust Company

Bondholders of the Streator Clay Manufacturing company, Streator, Ill., defendants in an action brought by the First Trust company of Appleton for the approval of its account with the Streator company, will receive $75,000 in a settlement filed this week in circuit court.

Judge Gustave G. Gehr, Milwaukee, who had granted the bondholders a judgment of $88,575.37 against the trust company, trustee for an issue of Streator company bonds, has approved the settlement.

The trust company's action was against John Morgan, H. W. Tuttrup, George B. Baldwin, James B. Wagg and Ralph J. Watts, as individuals and as members of the Bondholders' Protective committee of the Streator Clay Manufacturing company and as representatives of bondholders of the firm.

Testimony in the counterclaim of the bondholders for damages was taken in circuit court in October 1938. Following a fire which destroyed one of the Streator buildings in 1931, the trust company paid $105,000 to bondholders and used the remainder of the insurance money for replacement of the building and materials, leaving about $140,000 of the outstanding bonds still unpaid. Bondholders later received an 18 per cent dividend from the bankrupt estate of the Streator firm.

Under terms of the settlement, depositing bondholders will receive $88,575.37 or 36.49 cents per dollar and the depositing bondholders a net $11,605.22 or 33.19 cents per dollar. Deductions for attorney fees, costs of the action and miscellaneous are listed at $23,912.43.

Chicago Abandons Football Program

Trustees Vote to Quit Playing Intercollegiate Ball

ACTION A SURPRISE

Coch Shaughnessy and Director Metcalfe Unaware of Move

CHICAGO—(AP)—The University of Chicago, a member of the Big Ten conference since its inception in 1896 and one of its major gridiron powers for many years, has abandoned intercollegiate football.

The end of the sport in which Chicago, despite recent disastrous seasons, still holds more undisputed conference championships—six—than any other member came by decree of the university's board of trustees whose vote was unanimous.

The decision was made public last night by Harold Swift, chairman of the board, and Robert M. Hutchins, president of the university.

The trustees' statement said "the decision is effective at once and institutions with which football games have been scheduled for 1940 and 1941 will be asked to release the university."

"The university trusts," the statement added, "that its withdrawal from intercollegiate football will not require termination of its long and satisfactory relationship with the other members of the intercollegiate conference, known as the 'Big Ten.'"

The trustees said the university "believes its particular interests and conditions are such that its students now derive no special benefit from intercollegiate football."

Doubt that the conference would permit Chicago to continue conference competition in other sports was expressed by Prof. O. F. Long of Northwestern, chairman of the Big Ten faculty athletic committee and a member of that body for 37 years.

Predicting a special meeting of faculty delegates in the near future to consider the action, Prof. Long added "I can't speak for the conference, of course, but it was apparent at the Big Ten meeting early this month that the faculty group was opposed to the suggestion that Chicago should drop football and carry on as a Big Ten competitor in other sports."

The trustees' statement said "details of head coach Clark Shaughnessy's adjustments to the new situation have not been determined." Shaughnessy himself termed the action "quite startling," but declared he had no other comment to make.

Despite campus dissatisfaction with present football conditions and recent maneuvers by university authorities which hinted at the discard of football, the announcement came as a surprise to the Midway generally and the Big Ten circles.

Chicago won games last season—over Oberlin and Washburn—only the season before, over DePaul. She lost Oct. 31, 1938, when it defeated Wisconsin 7-6, when it won a conference game.

The Maroons would have faced the following schedule next year—Washburn, DePaul, Miami (Oxford, O.), Virginia, Brown, Purdue, Michigan and Ohio State. The last three are Big Ten schools.

Yearlings Were Strong

Against those foes, it had expected to present one of its strongest yearling groups in recent years. Neil Norrgren, freshman coach, shared that opinion and had termed the 1939 freshman squad Chicago's best in seven years.

It was only in the last few weeks that 35 upper classmen organized a tutoring service toward maintaining the eligibility of their prized freshmen in the hope of producing perhaps another Jay Berwanger.

Walter Eckersall, Walter Steffen, Charles Mc Guire, John Thomas, Paul Des Jardien, or Clarence Herschberger—all one time Maroon football heroes.

Coch Shaughnessy replaced Amos Alonzo Stagg seven years ago when the "grand old man" was retired after being Chicago's first and only coach for 41 years. Shaughnessy's teams won 16 games, lost 23 and tied four.

The Maroons, who helped pioneer intercollegiate football under the direction of Stagg, began to skid the year after the graduation of Berwanger, all American halfback in 1935.

The situation reached the point this season where "The Maroon," the campus newspaper, referred to the football team "as inept and under-manned, a joke to the American public and a sore spot to the alumni."

The article appeared by way of comparison to another published 30 years before which suggested that Chicago, Michigan, Illinois, Wisconsin and Minnesota were too strong for the other conference members and declared "it seems to us that a re-arrangement would work for the betterment of general athletic conditions."

That the student body still wanted its intercollegiate football, however, was disclosed in a survey by the student magazine pulse this fall. Answers to a questionnaire showed 1,001 wanted football continued as an intercollegiate sport and 114 favored its discontinuance.

LAST NIGHT'S RESULTS

Lutz Ice 41, Central Paper 16.

LUTZ Ice company basketball team may have been without the services of Karl Lillie last evening, but that didn't prevent it from winning a 41 to 16 victory over the Central Paper company and take a favored position in the City, X. M. C. A. league race. The Lutz lineup now sparkles with three members of the Elm Tree Baker squad.

Central led 7 to 6 at the quarter but that was just a teaser for the Ice men who had a 21-9 margin at the half. In the third quarter it was increased to 30 to 14. Krause, Catlin, Woner and Kriek of the winners had too much height under the hoop and Krause got six baskets.

Pond Sports went after their third victory when they took the floor against the Sorensen Bakers but instead they drew a 42 to 16 trimming. The Bakers led 8 to 4 at the quarter and 15 to 12 at the half. The third quarter score was 42 to 16.

Play was close in the first half with both teams using the short pass and fast break. Paulie and Powers paced the Bakers and Besch the Ponds during the periods. In the second half the Bakers tightened their defense and Pond points were zero in the third quarter while only four were scored in the last period. Besch had 11 points for Ponds and W. Ogilvie 12 for the Bakers.

Valley Sports, the Collegians until this week, dumped the Wire Works into the bottom class 44 to 23. The Sports led 7 to 3, 22 to 11 and 31 to 13 at the various periods. Cliff Burton paced the Valley team with seven field goals and a lot of height. Falk had nine points for the Wires.

Today's Guest Star

Lloyd Gregory, the Houston Post: "Rice football fans complained bitterly there was no deception in the football taught by Coach Jimmy Kitts. They can't say as much for the manner in which he was fired. At the 'R' association banquet, Capt. James Baker, chairman of the trustees, praised Kitts, said the trustees had 'confidence in him for the future.' Thirty-six hours later, J. T. McGinnis, chairman of the outdoor sports committee, announced Kitts was fired. That's deception!"

Big 10 Directors Express Surprise At Maroon Action

Stuhldreher Had Hoped U. W., Chicago Would Resume Relations

MADISON—(AP)—Harry A. Stuhldreher, University of Wisconsin football coach and athletic director, expressed regret today over the University of Chicago's decision to abandon intercollegiate football.

"I am certainly surprised to hear that they came to that decision," he said. "I regret that it was necessary to take such a step, because Chicago is very rich in athletic tradition both in the conference and in the country."

Although Wisconsin has not scheduled Chicago for 1940 or 1941 football games, Stuhldreher said the "Wisconsin-Chicago football relationship was one of the oldest out of this way," and that he had hopes of "renewing it soon."

Directors Surprised

Chicago—(AP)—The University of Chicago's decision to abandon intercollegiate football apparently came as a surprise to athletic directors of Western conference schools.

Even T. Nelson Metcalf, the Maroon athletic director, expressed surprise over the trustees' announcement although he said he knew that the action was contemplated.

Frank McCormick, athletic director at Minnesota, said he did not know what that school's attitude would be toward engaging Chicago in other sports.

Athletic Director E. G. Schroeder of Iowa expressed surprise over Chicago's decision and doubt whether other conference schools would permit the Maroons to compete in other sports as a Big Ten member.

"It's too bad," he said. "If Chicago can develop winning teams in other sports, it could have done likewise in football."

Directors Fielding H. Yost of Michigan, L. W. St. John of Ohio State and Wendell Wilson of Illinois were en route to the national collegiate athletic association meeting at Los Angeles and could not be reached immediately for comment.

Indianapolis, Ind.—(AP)—There was no indication as to the official attitude of Indiana's two Big Ten members, Indiana and Purdue universities—toward Chicago's withdrawal from Big Ten football competition. Both Noble Kizer, athletic director at Purdue and Zora G. Clevenger, athletic director at Indiana, are out of the state.

At Purdue Robert C. Woodworth, who was acting athletic director while Kizer was ill a year ago, said Chicago's decision came as a surprise since Purdue only last week completed arrangements with the Maroons to transfer the Purdue-Chicago football game next fall from Chicago to LaFayette. The game was to have been played on Oct. 19.

William J. Moenkhaus, chairman of the Indiana University faculty athletic committee, said he would not speak for other members of the committee but that he would favor granting Chicago's request to cancel the game with Indiana in 1941.

Ann Arbor, Mich.—(AP)—Herbert O. Fritz, Crisler, head football coach at University of Michigan and former Chicago star, expressed surprise today at Chicago's withdrawal from Western conference football competition.

"Naturally, the news of Chicago's decision comes as a surprise to me," said Crisler. "At this late date it may be extremely difficult to line up an attractive game to replace the Chicago contest on our 1940 schedule."

1939 The Year In Sports

Golf

Snead Gets An 8 When It Hurts Most

BY DILLON GRAHAM

New York — (P) — Sammy Snead, the handsome hill-billy whose sweet smile and sweeter swing had caught the fancy of golfers everywhere, was coming up the hill to the last hole.

Thousands fought for a spot around the Philadelphia Country Club's wide 18th green to see Snead, the "people's choice," win the National open championship.

Slammun' Sammy needed a par 5 to win as he approached the final, 72nd hole. He pushed his drive into the bunker. That was bad, but Sammy could still get his five. Those who perspired around the green didn't know that Snead's ball had dropped into a bad lie, so there wasn't any amazement when he pulled out a spoon. But the groan of the crowd could be heard all over the course when Sammy hit a poor, low shot into a bunker a few yards ahead.

Sammy took a long iron. A niblick would have been safer but he had to gamble now. Snead didn't get the shot up and dug into the sand.

The spectators gasped. They were quiet as Snead, raging angry now, lunged at the ball and knocked it far off line. Hardly a sound came from the crowd. It had come to celebrate a victory but found itself on a wake.

Ralph Guldahl, big Texan who had won the Open two straight years, was up front with 287.

The P. G. A. championship was featured by almost unbelievably low scoring. Nelson came within an ace of winning both the P. G. A. and the Open, but at one up with two to play, Nelson was caught by Picard and beaten on the 37th hole. A threatened strike by the topnotch pros over the banning of Denny Shute because of a technicality produced fireworks and resulted in Shute's playing. He was beaten in an early round.

Husky Betty Jameson, 17, and a Southwestern star for five years, turned back slender young Dorothy Kirby of Atlanta to win the women's diadem. Two-time queen Patty Berg, who had mopped up most of the earlier tournaments, was kept from playing by an appendectomy.

The European was canceled the British-American professional Ryder Cup matches. The U. S. bowler, named a team composed of Walter Hagen, captain; Nelson, Snead, Guldahl, Picard, Vic Ghezzi, Jimmy Hines, Harold McSpaden, Dick Metz, Horton Smith and Paul Runyan.

Other championship winners were: Intercollegiate, Vincent D'Amico, Tulane; British Open, Dick Totton, Western Amateur, Larry Todd, Western Open, Byron Nelson, Trans-Mississippi, Chick Harbert, Public Links, Andy Swedko, Augusta Open, Ralph Guldahl. (Bobby Jones again completed but was not among the leaders.) French Amateur, Dick Chapman, British Amateur, Alex Kyle. (Charles Yates, defending champion, was eliminated by Chapman.)

Things I have learned, I am not on any diet, but I do eat the plainest of foods and sidestep fats and gravies, of which I am fond."

Out of his clear blue eyes the tall thin man looks ahead and imagines another pennant winner at Philadelphia, a team that would make the Yankees take a back seat, maybe a world's championship club.

As his birthday approaches—he'll be 77 on December 23rd—Connie Mack sits in his office high up in Shibe Park's tower and lays his plans for another baseball season.

"I'm trying for a winner; one that will be up there fighting for the lead. I do not know how successful I will be. But I have hopes," he says.

Wins Still Battle

Just a few months ago baseball folk thought that Connie would never take the bench again, that perhaps he wouldn't live to celebrate another birthday.

Critically ill for long weeks, Cornelius McGillicuddy lay in the sick room while his son Earl managed Connie's beloved Athletics.

Now Mack has recovered. He looks better than he has in several years.

"I feel fine, never felt better," he tells friends.

"I have learned a lot about how to live, and I am observing those things."

UNCLE RAY'S CORNER

MOUNTAINS
As a traveler roams over the earth, he crosses mountains from time to time. Mountains are great risings of the land, and are found on every continent, also on certain islands.
Long, careful study has brought out many facts about mountains. We know that most of them arose from motion in the crust of the earth.

A cable railway used to ascend a peak in the French Alps.

The skin of an orange may be compared to the earth's crust. When an orange dries up, the skin becomes wrinkled, and we may fancy we are looking at little mountains and valleys.

Scientists are not certain why the earth's crust has been rising and falling, but they know it has been happening. Rock layers on many mountains tops contain shells, fish skeletons and other remains of ocean life. It is clear that such mountains once were at the bottom of an ocean or sea.

Folding of rock layers has gone on. Pressures inside the earth have forced the rock layers high into the air, and in that way have made mountains.

The Alps, the Rocky mountains and the Appalachians were made partly by folding of rock layers. The Rockies are "younger" than the Appalachians, but even so they existed for vast ages.

Most mountains have been made by the pushing up of rock layers, but this is not true of all of them. There once was a great plateau when the Catskill mountains stand. It was high, but almost level, on the top.

Since then, the action of water has cut down many parts. Streams and rivers have "carved it up" through the ages, leaving hills and small mountains. It is possible to-day to locate rock layers in one Catskill peak which match closely with the layers in a peak across the valley.

Other mountains have been made by volcanoes. Mount Vesuvius in Italy was built up in that way. It is a great cone more than 3,800 feet high.

Several peaks in the Andes mountains have been built largely by eruptions of volcanoes. One of these is Aconcagua, which rises to a height of four and a half miles above sea level.

Africa also has a lofty peak which was formed largely by volcanoes. It is named Kilimanjaro, and is 19,321 feet high.

There'll be Plenty of Cranberries, Turkeys
For Christmas Season

Plenty of cranberries and turkeys will be available for the holiday season, according to the crop reporting service of the Wisconsin and United States departments of agriculture.

Wisconsin produced an excellent crop of cranberries this year. Latest estimates show that about 108,000 barrels of berries were harvested in the state. The Wisconsin cranberry crop this year is about 70 per cent larger than in 1938 and more than 80 per cent above the 10-year average. Wisconsin is the second largest producer of cranberries in the nation. The nation's crop this year was about 40 per cent larger than a year ago and nearly 12 per cent above average, making the total supply well above average.

A record turkey crop was raised in the nation this year. In Wisconsin a more than average number of turkeys were raised. Estimates show that the total supply for the nation this year is about 22 per cent larger than a year ago. Of the turkeys raised in the nation this year, producers expect to market about half the crop in December or later. More than a third of the turkeys are intended for the December market.

The Rev. W. Pankow of New London will preach. Registration for holy communion on New Year's eve will take place Thursday. The Rev. Harold E. Wickes is pastor.

Lee Yorkson, a representative of the Wisconsin Dairy Industries association, will outline in detail the proposed plan for raising a million dollar fund to advertise dairy products nationally.

L. C. Kuennen, chief of the dairy division of the state department of agriculture, will explain the quality improvement program which is being initiated in Wisconsin by the state department of agriculture and the college of agriculture, how it is designed to show the importance of small changes in milk production methods to produce the best in quality; how its objectives are to assist dairymen to meet the competition of other states, to hold their present markets and acquire new outlets for their products in producing quality milk and cream for use in manufacture of those products. He said that the dairy advertising program is designed to go right along with the quality program in the securing of new markets and increased markets for Wisconsin dairy products.

At this county-wide meeting the entire program will be fully discussed and results secured by other farm products through national advertising will be explained and illustrated through the use of charts. The plan has been endorsed by the Wisconsin Council of Agriculture, the Wisconsin Farm Bureau Federation, the Madison Milk Producers association and the Wisconsin Grange, according to A. L. McMahon, Calumet county agent.

At a meeting Tuesday evening at Hilbert the Calumet county cheesemakers unanimously endorsed the program. Henry Liebert stated that the cheesemakers have been working for an advertising program for a great many years and he was glad to see that other organizations have now come to realize the need for an adequate advertising program and are willing to help put such a program over. Louis A. Wren stated that if such a program had been started 10 years ago, we would not have many of the troubles that now beset the dairy industry.

The present plan calls for the joining together of all the leading dairy states in a nation-wide advertising program. Funds for the program have already been raised in the states of Washington, Iowa and Minnesota. In Minnesota the money was raised by voluntary subscription, in Iowa and Washington the money was appropriated by the respective legislatures. In Wisconsin it is hoped to raise the $200,000, which has been set as Wisconsin's quota, by a check-off of 1 cent per pound of butterfat during the month of August by each individual farmer. This will be voluntary, according to McMahon, although it is the hope of the state committee that the majority of the farmers will give the program their whole-hearted support. It is estimated, he said, that the cost will average approximately 10 cents on each cow, figuring on the basis of 2,000,000 dairy cows in Wisconsin producing the $200,000 needed.

May Cite Counties for Bang Disease Programs

Upon adoption by the federal government of a proposal to recognize counties with less than 1 per cent Bang infection in their total cattle population, three Wisconsin counties would be eligible as Bang modified accredited areas, according to a state department of agriculture bulletin received by J. F. Magnus, Outagamie county agent. The counties are Vilas, Price and Oneida.

Next in line for the classification would be seven other area tested counties which would need only one more test to be eligible. These counties are Adams, Bayfield, Juneau, Langlade, Lincoln, Portage and Burnett.

A plan for recognizing counties with less than one per cent Bang infection as Bang modified accredited areas was presented to the United States Bureau of Animal Industry last week by a Bang's disease committee of the United States Livestock Sanitary association.

The plan will be recognized as

Feb. 29 Date for Applications on Wheat Insurance

County AAA Committee
Ready to Begin Writing Policies

Officials of the federal crop insurance corporation have set February 29 as the deadline for acceptance of applications for "all-risk" insurance on the 1940 spring wheat crop. The closing date applies to receipt of completed and paid-up applications in county AAA offices, according to Harry O. Wells, state chairman of the agricultural conservation commission.

The county AAA committee is ready to begin writing insurance immediately, according to Joseph Garvey, county chairman. During the last summer and fall, officials have been determining the insurable yields and premium rates for practically all wheat farms. These rates are determined from the yield and loss experience of the farm, either historical, or appraised under a "wheat" farm system, for the 13-year base period, 1926-38. In many counties the wheat will be able to sign up for insurance at the same time they fill out their 1940 AAA farm plan.

Under the 1940 wheat insurance program, premiums for the insurance must be paid at the time the application is completed. The grower may pay his premium with wheat, cash, or by an advance against future payments to be earned under the AAA program. Payments in wheat are made by delivering an acceptable warehouse receipt for wheat equivalent in value to the amount of wheat called for by the premium.

Payments in cash may be made by cash, check, or money order equivalent in value to the specified wheat premium at the prevailing market price. All growers who are eligible for AAA payments may file a request with the county committee for an advance, which, if approved, will be used to pay the premium and will be deducted from the future AAA payments earned by the producer.

similar to the modified accredited area program for counties that have eliminated bovine tuberculosis. It marks the first attempt made to establish a program of that kind for counties that have reduced Bang infection to a minimum.

Senator Wheeler Will Need All His Political Skill Next Year

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER

Washington—There is no more skillful politician in the senate than Burton K. Wheeler of Montana and he will need all of his dexterity in 1940.

First, his senate term is expiring and he must safeguard his re-election in Montana while playing out the uncertain shot for the Democratic presidential nomination. Second, Senator Wheeler must fight the Hull reciprocal-trade agreement program, in deference to Montana sentiment, but in so doing he must not offend Secretary Hull, or at least he must not incur the displeasure of President Roosevelt. Anybody who undertakes to do that deserves a congressional medal for valor in action beyond the line of duty.

For some candidates, running for president is a comparatively simple thing. You put up a little money, induce your friends to put up a lot of money, and start out. Taft, for instance, is safe for four years more in the senate, so he can devote himself wholeheartedly to traveling about the country delivering speeches out of the family album. Dewey has started with a speech on optimism that has won more acclaim than anything in the inspirational line since Bryan's cross-of-gold speech. Taft is for the good old days and Dewey is for the good days to come. For them politics is simple. They don't have to worry about getting Mr. Roosevelt's blessing.

But Senator Wheeler says quite frankly that no Democrat can be nominated against Mr. Roosevelt's veto. He is certain also that the nominee must be a liberal.

That Senator Wheeler is a liberal, few would dispute. He even left the Democratic party in 1924 to run for vice president on the LaFollette Independent Progressive ticket. When a fellow is liberal enough to leave his party, that ought to qualify him. At any rate Secretary Ickes and Secretary Wallace so qualified themselves for the New Deal when they quit the Republican party. Senator Wheeler did the rough senate work for the team of Corcoran and Cohen on the utility holding-company bill, and that certainly was standing under fire at a time when a lot of Democrats were running hell-bent for the cloakrooms.

New Deal Frowned on Him
During Supreme Court Fight

Senator Wheeler's difficulty is that he refused to go along on the supreme court fight. For a few weeks during that controversy he was catalogued at headquarters here as a New Dealer turned Tory, which is listed as a crime second only to beating your mother-in-law. However, unlike some other apostates, he came back and refused to give up his liberal label. New Dealers are divided as to whether Mr. Roosevelt ought to take Senator Wheeler.

Thus the senator comes up, hopefully, to the next session of congress, which will be marked by the bitter fight to renew the reciprocal trade act. It automatically expires in June and Secretary Hull is ready to use all the buckshot in Washington, if necessary, to obtain a renewal of his authority. Western states are leading the attack and Senator Wheeler, if he values his political life in Montana, must join in.

He is trying to be tactful. He is saying that the west is definitely against the treaties, not that the people know much about the treaties, but farmers are angry and are in no mood to let in any goods from foreign countries. Senator Wheeler apparently thinks there is considerable purely political opposition in this, whipped up by the Republicans but he says feeling is such that it is a mistake to try to hang on to the program. Senator Wheeler is trying to be

Await Results of Post Mortem in Pocan Death

County authorities are awaiting the results of a post mortem examination in the death of Edward Pocan, 67, 612 W. Washington street, who died last Friday afternoon a short time after collapsing while at work in the chlorine department of the Fox River Paper mill. The autopsy was ordered to determine whether his death was the result of heart failure or the effects of chlorine gas. District Attorney Raymond P. Dohr said it may be several days before a report on the cause of the death is had.
